Curley Sentence Set for Thursday

Mayor James M. Curley was ordered today to appear in Washington Thursday to be committed to prison for six to 18 months and pay a $1000 fine in connection with his mail fraud conviction in the war contracts case. Asst. U. S. Atty. Sidney S. Sachs directed the mayor's chief counsel, William L. Leahy, to surrender him in U. S. District Court at 10 a. m., June 26. Notice also was given Atty. Nicholas J. Chase, associate defense counsel, and Curley's bondsmen. Sachs said today:

"They are supposed to have the defendant in court at that time. The procedure is to have the defendant committed at that time unless the defense attorneys can prevail on the court that for some reason he should not be committed to jail."

The news was broken to Curley by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Curley, early this afternoon at Cohasset Hospital, where she found him sitting up.

"It did not upset him," she said.

"He told me: 'If I continue to improve as I have the last two days I will go to Washington Tuesday, rest on Wednesday and present myself in court Thursday.'"

It was the first statement to come from the mayor since he was hospitalized.

"I think he probably will go by plane," Mrs. Curley said.

The mayor's physician, Dr. Edward H. Schott, reported he had experienced a "fairly good night" but his blood pressure was "still high and he was weak. Schott said:

"I am still afraid of his condition and of a cerebral hemorrhage. He wants to go to Washington as soon as he can and he asked me if I would accompany him but I have other patients here. I shall recommend a doctor's presence if he makes the trip, however. And his condition is such that I wouldn't sanction his hospital release for the present."

Schott was to give the mayor a complete examination later today. Last night the physician was of the opinion that if Curley's improvement yesterday continued at the same rate he could be released from the hospital late next week.

Justice department spokesmen have said they would not insist on immediate imprisonment of the mayor if it would jeopardize his life.

Curley Accomplish Gets 5 Years for Bad Check

James G. Fuller, the promoter convicted and sentenced for mail fraud with Mayor James M. Curley, was given a five-to-six-year sentence in New York today for passing a worthless $883.20 check.

Fuller was out on bail pending appeal of his conviction in the mail fraud case when he passed the check, Oct. 26. He made a voluble explanation in the check case, but failed to soften Judge Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr., of New York's General Sessions Court.

House Promptly Overrides Veto of Labor Control Bill

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—President Truman today vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill to curb labor unions and the House promptly voted 331 to 83 to make it law over his veto. That put it up to the Senate the issue of whether the measure is to become law de-

SENATE MAY VOTE

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Senate Democratic and Republican leaders were reported late today to be near agreement for a Senate vote on President Truman's veto at 5 p. m. Boston time tomorrow.

"unfair" and "unworkable." He said it would promote strikes. Mr. Truman summed up his displeasure of the labor bill in five sentences:

"The bill taken as a whole would reverse the basic direction of our national labor policy, inject the government into private economic affairs on an unprecedented scale, and conflict with important principles of our democratic society."

"Its provisions would cause more strikes, not fewer."

"It would contribute neither to industrial peace nor to economic stability and progress."

"It would be a dangerous stride in the direction of a totally managed economy."

"It contains seeds of discord which would plague this nation for years to come."

As for the measure's ban against recognition of unions with Communist leaders, the President said that would play into the hands of the Communists.

"The only result of this provision," he said, "would be confusion and disorder, which is exactly the result the Communists desire."

"The fundamental test to be applied to the Taft-Hartley bill, Mr. Truman said, is whether in the 'present critical hour' it would 'strengthen or weaken American democracy.'"

This was his judgment:

"I have concluded that the bill is a clear threat to the successful working of our Democratic society."

The President capped his blast against the measure with an invitation for the legislators to try their hand again with a wholly new bill.

Mr. Truman said they still had genuine opportunity to enact "appropriate labor legislation" and called attention to recommendations he made last January. These were for a measure prohibiting jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts (for unjustifiable objections) and for creation of a commission to study the need of other labor law objectives. Here are the major provisions of the bill:

1—Let the government get court orders to block "national calamity" strikes, as in the coal and steel industries, during 80 days of mediation.

2—Prohibit the closed shop, in which the boss can hire only union help.

3—Ban various kinds of special strikes and boycotts.

4—Permit court suits against unions that break contracts.

5—Deny collective bargaining rights to any union having as an officer a Communist or sympathizer, or anyone who could "reasonably be regarded as one."

6—Make it an unfair labor practice, which could be stopped by a court order, for a union to keep non-striking workers from their jobs by mass or violent picketing.

7—Prohibit "excessive or discriminatory" union dues and initiation fees.

Split-Second Bandits Get $6915 Payroll

Two bandits who operated with split-second timing stole a $6915 payroll today from the Crossier & Shlager Iron Works, Washington st., Somerville, terrorizing women employees with drawn guns and escaping in an automobile which had been reported stolen in Jamaica Plain.

At the wheel was a third man who had backed the car into the plant yard, pointed for a getaway.

The two gunmen, appeared in the office just as Allan Wolozin, 21, of Malden, captain of Tufts College track team, arrived with the 125-employee payroll from a Boston bank, where he had been accompanied by Abraham Shlager of the firm.

Wolozin was carrying two wrapped shoe boxes, one containing the payroll, the other, 10 pounds of potato.

As he was about to hand them over to a clerk, Mrs. Mary Abbott, a gun was rammed in his back and one of the bandits, who had entered directly after him, said, "I'll take it."

Wrenching the boxes from the Tufts athlete, he ordered Mrs. Abbott and three other women to face the windows and threatened them not to use the telephones.

The bandit's companion saw George Doyle, 38, of Armington st., Allston, a truck driver, nearby and forced him into another office at gunpoint.

The first man, in leaving, wrenched two telephones from their connections.

Miss Mary Sheehan of Bank st., Cambridge, who had been ordered to the windows with Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Ruth Godfrey and Rose Franio, noted the registration plate on the getaway car.

The holdup occurred immediately after the workmen had left the plant for lunch.

Both bandits were about 35, both had partly gray hair. One was six feet, two, wearing a gray felt hat and a solid Army jacket. The other was almost as tall and wore dark glasses. He was clad in Army coveralls.

Defense Scores In Cote Murder

By STEVE O'LEARY and JAMES J. DELANEY

PLYMOUTH, June 20—The state sought unsuccessfully today to get before the superior court jury in the murder trial of Mrs. Bertha E. Cote that the petite and attractive widow was big and strong enough to inflict the injuries which killed her husband Rene, 35, in their Brockton home last Dec. 28. Each move of Asst. Dist.

Atty. John A. Wheatley to get in evidence an opinion to that effect from Dr. Peirce H. Leavitt, the Brockton medical examiner, was checked by Defense Atty. Eben C. Townes as his steady objections were upheld and the question excluded by Judge Felix Forte.

Townes also scored heavily when he drew from the medical examiner agreement that just before his death Cote might have engaged in a fist fight in which he landed punches on an assailant. He also obtained from Dr. Leavitt an admission that he did not notice any bruises on Mrs. Cote on the morning after the slaying.

Townes asked if there were injuries on both of Cote's hands. Dr. Leavitt replied, "Yes."

"Looks like he got in a fight?" asked the lawyer.

"It was consistent with a man fighting," the doctor said.

"It's consistent with a fight in which he got a punch in the mouth and landed a blow with the right hand and the left hand?" pressed Townes.

"Yes," the doctor agreed.

"Is it consistent with a fight which Cote was winning and then somebody came along and hit him with something?" continued Townes.

"I don't know, sir," the medical examiner said.

Dr. Leavitt, husky, beetle-browed and frequently using his hands expressively around his own head, face and throat to demonstrate the type and nature of the fatal wounds, had just given his opinion of the cause of death before Townes blocked the State's attempt to tie the tiny widow in with the injuries.

In his opinion, the doctor said, Cote died of "extensive cranial and brain injuries, caused by several blunt impacts to the head." He added that "coincidental with these injuries the neck had been grasped manually with sufficient violence to cause strangulation and severe injuries in the vicinity of the air passages."

The defendant, garbed again in her black and white ensemble with her tan three-quarter coat to ward off the chill in the air, remained seated in her chair beside the prisoner's dock as Dr. Leavitt detailed the savage injuries which had caused her husband's death.

There was no display of emotion on her face as she sat, shifting occasionally in her chair for a more comfortable position as she listened to the gory recital.

In his direct examination, Dr. Leavitt related that the autopsy had shown the defendant's skull was "unusually brittle" on the top of the head. The fractures, he said, ran laterally from the top of the head to a point in front of the left ear and in back of the ear.

The throat, he said, showed evidence of hemorrhage from the jugular notch to the point of the jaw on the left side.

There was a Y-shaped mark on the left side of the throat which he said was consistent with the mark of a thumb nail and an impression here consistent with the mark of a thumb.

Questioned as to the size of that thumb he was about to answer when Townes objected and was upheld by Judge Forte.

He said, however, that the mark was consistent with the application of manual force. He also said the throat injuries, fracturing of the hyoid bone and shattering the thyroid cartilage, had occurred while the defendant still was alive.

Death, he said, occurred from 10 to 20 minutes after one of the two blows which in his opinion were struck on the head.

"In your opinion could a woman have caused this injury," Wheatley asked.

Townes objected and the question was excluded.

"In your opinion could the defendant have caused these injuries?" Wheatley pressed and again Townes objected and the question was excluded.

"In your opinion," Wheatley asked, "could a woman of the size and physical makeup of this defendant have caused the injury?"

Once again the judge excluded the question on a Townes objection.

"Please bear with me a moment," said Wheatley, and conferred in a whisper with Dist.

Lynn Girl's Nails Jail Attacker

The long fingernails on the small hand of a 10-year-old Lynn girl saved her from a possible criminal attack in a Central ave. doorway and today sent a drifter from Miami to jail for at least two years.

In Lynn court Judge Fay sentenced Rupert U. Wade, 39, to two consecutive one-year terms on conviction of two counts of assault on the girl. Wade was also held in $2500 for the grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to commit criminal attack.

He was captured 10 minutes after the assault Wednesday when two civilians who heard the girl talking to a patrolman turned a corner and saw Wade's hand dripping blood from scratches.

Medical Examiner's Report on Murder

PLYMOUTH, June 20—The fifth day of the murder trial of Bertha Surprise Cote opened today at 10:10 a. m. Dr. Peirce Leavitt, medical examiner, was called as the first first witness.

Dr. Leavitt said he had been medical examiner of the first Plymouth district for about 20 years. He answered a series of questions qualifying himself as a medical expert.

He said that as the result of a telephone call from police, he went to the Cote home last Dec. 28, arriving there at 4:53 a. m.

Q—Upon entering the room there what did you do. A—I went over to the body, felt the pulse and also took the respiration.

Q—Then did you make some further examination. A—Yes, I felt of the fingers and toes to determine whether or not rigor mortis had set in.

Q—From that examination what did you determine. A—Rigor mortis had set in.

Q—Did you feel the body. A—Yes, as to how much heat had been lost.

Q—From that examination could you tell how long the body had been dead. A—I would say anywhere from one and one half hours to one and three quarters. Q—That would be between 3:15 and 3:45. A—I would say.

Q—You made further observations. A—Yes, there was blood on the floor, on his cheek, and also on his hair.

Q—Then the body was removed to a funeral parlor. A—Yes on my orders.

Q—Was there a discussion about the removal of the body. A—Yes, but she (Mrs. Cote) made no choice.

Q—You called the funeral director. A—I don't know whether I did or not.

Q—Did you make any observation relative to the wrist watch on the hand of defendant. A—Yes, I did.

Q—Did you take that watch later. A—Yes.

Q—And where was that. A—At the funeral parlors.

Wheatley questioned the witness about the watch that was

Vet Bureau Trio Held With 4 in Thefts

The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today the arrest of seven men, including two present and one former Veterans Administration officials on charges growing out of the sale of "on the job" training equipment to the Boston VA office.

E. A. Soucy, Boston FBI chief, said several months of investigation had preceded the arrests.

The seven were arraigned before Martin T. Hall, U. S. commissioner and held in bail for hearing on July 1.

Soucy said the arrests were the result of transactions that occurred in 1946 when the VA was a heavy purchaser of equipment for veterans getting on-the-job training. The seven, he added, were involved in the purchase of 80 per cent of the equipment.

Those named as defendants were:

Frederick H. Abbott, 43, Stoneham, formerly chief procurement clerk of the supply section and Warren P. Brown, 41, Melrose, former trainee property officer and presently trainee officer, in the Boston VA office.

Walter C. Cleary, 38, Wakefield, former VA supply officer.

Benjamin B. Seigel, 43, Brookline, manager of several realty firms.

Harry Malkofsky, 31, and Albert Rubin, 25, both of Brighton, and nephews of Seigel; Ralph P. Greene, 53, Arlington.

An eighth man involved is David Aransky, 28, Brockton, now awaiting trial on charges of receiving stolen goods and diverting government property from Camp Edwards. Aransky is alleged to have offered bribes to the three VA men involved in the present bribery charges.

Hall freed Cleary and Abbott in personal recognizance and set bail for Rubin, Malkofsky and Brown at $1000 cash each. Seigel was held in $2500 cash and Greene in $1000 on security. All furnished bail and were released.

The commissioner set July 1 as the date for a hearing.

Chandler Hears His Counsel Call Him 'Paranoiac'

Douglas Chandler gazed intently at the ceiling in federal court today as the attorney fighting for his acquittal on treason charges labeled the expatriate American ex-newsman "a paranoiac suffering from delusions" with an irresistible impulse that drove him to anti-Semitism.

Atty. Claude B. Gross, chief defense counsel, prepared to prove Chandler was insane when he broadcast propaganda to the U. S. from Berlin during the war and therefore could not have the intent to betray his country.

The hand of the defense was forced when Judge Francis J. W. Ford earlier denied a motion for a "judgment of acquittal." The court's decision came after a 45-minute bench conference with opposing counsel while the jury was out of the courtroom.

Gross said four doctors would testify Chandler suffered from "morbid, fixed beliefs which cannot be corrected by reason or judgment."

The defendant, said Gross, suffered from a fixed psychological condition "from internal causes, but had no hallucinations or false perceptions."

First defense witness called by Gross was Richard S. McCabe, a Boston lawyer, who testified he knew Chandler as a boy in Baltimore and had not seen him in intervening years until the defendant was brought to the U. S. for trial.

McCabe said Chandler took no part in sports as a boy and wouldn't even play catch.

"He wouldn't have anything to do with the rest of us," McCabe went on.

"In your opinion," asked Gross, "what was Chandler's mental condition when you saw him here?"

"He was insane,"

An objection to admission of the opinion was made by Special Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Oscar R. Ewing, but was overruled by Judge Ford after a brief bench conference.

The same opinion was voiced by Mrs. Frank Baker, 53, Baltimore, Chandler's sister.

Europe, until 1946, when he was flown back to the U. S.

When she did see him again, she said, he was "emaciated, highly nervous, and spoke in a strangely high, almost feminine voice with a wild look in his eyes."

"He wept easily," she said, "and looked so bad I didn't think he was going to live."

"He is insane."

Without an attempt at cross-examination by the government prosecutor, Gross passed on quickly to the third defense witness, Dr. Frederick Wyatt, physician at McLean Hospital, Belmont, and on the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Wyatt identified himself as an erstwhile instructor at Columbia and Harvard and said he had received his doctorate in Vienna.

He testified he had subjected Chandler to seven personality tests and found:

"There were indications of intense and possibly unconscious homosexual tendencies."

Chandler showed no evidence of overt homosexual acts, he added.

The psychologist's opinion was that Chandler is "intellectually ambitious, with an I. Q. of 121, but vague, unstable, socially mal-adjusted and harbors intensely aggressive feelings he can neither control nor exercise."

"Chandler doesn't normally perceive the world except as he wishes," said Wyatt.

A recess was called before Gross had finished with his examination.

Earlier, the government had rested after recalling to the stand Karl L. Schotte, ex-chief of Radio Berlin's shortwave division beamed to America.

Schotte specified Chandler's duties at the radio station as follows:

To attend commentators' conferences, receive directives, be assigned certain subjects, write his scripts and submit them to Schotte for censorship, read the scripts into the microphone for broadcast to the U. S.

Stoneham's Police Chief Snubs Ouster

Stoneham's selectmen today served notice on Capt. John C. Nelson, head of the police department, they were taking over administration of the force as of the moment, then presented him with a lengthy list of what they described as weaknesses.

The immediate result was that Capt. Nelson continued to run the department and a body of pro-Nelson citizens rushed to sign petitions for him.

Spearheading the petition drive was Willard Ames, World War II veteran, who declared:

Individually and collectively, selectmen are not qualified by training or experience to perform the administrative duties of the police department."

The row was reported to have originated in connection with several recent promotions involving a lieutenant and two sergeants, but Capt. Nelson would not comment, beyond saying, "This is going to be ironed out."

"Favoritism," however, was one of the accusations delivered by the selectmen in their document to the captain.

His accusers are Chairman Frederick H. Schneider, Secretary Edwin H. Lombard and Charles F. Crosby.

They told him the department's morale was not good, that he had failed to co-operate with them, and that he had overdrawn his budget on some items for a total of $54.

Ames, the captain's principal defender, pointed out that the same board of selectmen had commended Nelson in the 1946 report for "faithful and efficient work," and ordered he should be given an extra seven-day leave with pay as evidence of appreciation.

Ames also said the last town meeting had voted the captain an increase in pay which he received last April with approval of the selectmen.

Near Death, Rich Dealer Tells How Pickup Girls Doped Him

Harry Cohen, 53, wealthy Worcester cotton goods dealer, recovered sufficiently from a cerebral hemorrhage today to furnish police with a description of two strikingly beautiful women who doped and robbed him of nearly $2000 in a downtown hotel.

Invited to their four-bed room after he had struck up a casual acquaintance with one of them, Cohen said the last thing he remembered was complaining about the taste of beer they were drinking. When he recovered consciousness he was in City Hospital, given only a slight chance of recovery.

The women, both about 30, registered at the hotel as Mary and Eleanor Warrick, Washington, D. C.

But Cohen said he remembered one of the women called her companion "Jean."

Cohen described one as five feet two inches, 125 pounds, dark complexion, wearing a black two-piece suit and a white blouse. Her companion was about five feet five inches, 135 pounds, of a lighter complexion, with brown hair. She wore a two-piece suit of a yellowish tan hue. They had three pieces of dark brown alligator luggage.

Doctors at City Hospital, still unable to identify the drug used, said Cohen was alive today because he had been given an overdose and had been found before it was too late for medical assistance.

Rallying after several blood transfusions, Cohen said he felt strong enough to tell police the details of the incident.

He said he had come to Boston Tuesday by bus on a shopping trip and at 5:30 that afternoon was standing at the entrance to the hotel. A cab pulled up and one of the two girls alighted.

They exchanged "hellos," he said and he was invited to phone her room and an hour later he called her room. He was invited up for a drink and when he entered the large room he found the girl he had met had a companion.

All three went on a tour of the town until about 11 p. m. When they returned to the hotel, Cohen said, the girls again invited him to their room for a drink. Their invitation even extended to the use of one of the four beds instead of making the trip back to Worcester that night.

"We were all drinking beer," he said, "and I noticed that tasted very peculiar and I said so. One of the girls agreed that hers wasn't too tasty either, but she suggested that we drink it anyway."

Cohen was found unclothed and unconscious in the room not long after the women had hurriedly checked out of the hotel.

Suspicious of hotel attaches were aroused. They went to the room to investigate and found Cohen lying on a bed with a towel draped over his body and a smaller towel across his forehead in the form of a cold press.

A hotel doctor failed to revive the victim, and he was rushed to City Hospital.

He said he had been carrying about $750 in cash and a $1200 diamond ring. The latter, along with the cash, is missing.

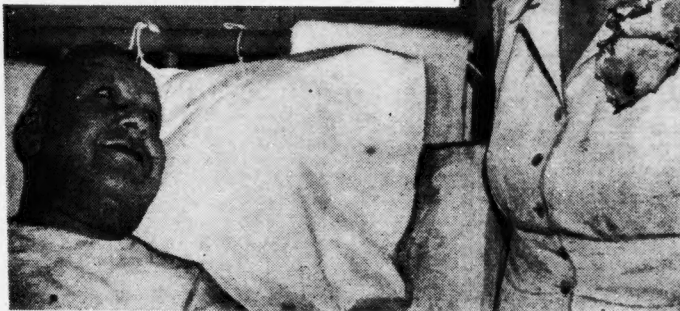

Police found the victim's empty wallet in the hotel room.

He was a close friend of Worcester police officials and operated a chain of cotton remnant stores in Worcester County.

After a police teletype had been sent out, it was reported that girls answering their description are wanted for similar robberies in Cleveland.

Authorities there said two women, whose names and whereabouts are unknown, had been convicted of grand larceny from a Columbus, O., business man, who was given doped beer and robbed of $56 in cash and a $265 diamond ring. The women, also said to be attractive, posed as sisters.

Cohen said the women told him they were sisters and divorcees and had come to Boston to attend a christening the next day in Mattapan.

Police said they have found the cab driver who picked the women up as they checked out of the hotel. He told them he let them off in the downtown area only a short distance from the hotel.

On the theory the women were still in the city, police began an exhaustive check of hotels and lodging houses which may have admitted one or both about midnight Tuesday.

At Cohen's bedside is his brother, Israel, a Worcester wholesale grocer.

Whistling Bandit Sought in Holdup

PAWTUCKET, June 20—Police today hunted a daring gunman who walked away whistling after holding up a funeral parlor director for $500.

The gunman, nattily dressed in a double-breasted gray suit and Panama hat, first asked Undertaker Thomas E. Berry for a match. When the latter obliged, the bandit pulled out a gun and demanded all the money in the place.

Gun-Toting Whittall Heir Freed of Drunken-Driving

By CASPER T. DORFMAN

WORCESTER, June 20—Matthew Whitten Whittall, 42-year-old son of a Worcester multi-millionaire carpet manufacturer, was today exonerated of charges of drunken driving and disturbing the peace after his estranged wife testified as a State witness before Judge Frank L. Riley in Worcester district court.

According to police testimony, Whittall was arrested about 5 a. m. on the morning of May 31 last following a police chase. Police said he admitted having three or four beers and medicine earlier. Dr. Joseph Scola testified the defendant claimed to have had a codeine injection with a hypodermic needle about midnight and that the defendant showed him a permit to carry a hypodermic needle. The doctor said he tested the defendant by giving him a newspaper to read and that the defendant read it.

Judge Riley asked Dr. Scola, "How did you arrive at the conclusion he was under the influence of liquor?" The doctor answered, "He had an odor of alcohol."

The defendant had entered the courtroom on crutches. The judge asked if the defendant was on crutches the night he was arrested and was told Whittall used a cane at that time.

A police officer testified to making the arrest following a chase. He said he found the defendant had a fully loaded automatic revolver on his person, adding Whittall had a license to carry the gun. The license has since been revoked.

Atty. Conrad C. Crooker, counsel for Whittall's estranged wife, Ann Frances, 32-year-old former actress and now working as a waitress at the Coronado Hotel, attempted to question the officer.

Atty. George Mason of the firm of Vaughan, Esty, Clark and Crotty, counsel for the defendant, strenuously objected and said: "He has filed a declaration for $250,000 each against my client's father and mother, charging alienation of affections, and this charge is one of the allegations in the declaration."

The judge allowed Crooker to examine the witness, and the police officer said young Whittall had told him that he was on his way to his wife's house at the time of the arrest.

The judge recalled Dr. Scola and asked:

"The codeine would have had some effect?"

"Yes," the doctor answered.

The judge then ordered a not

Rep. Smith to Offer Alternate Tax Program

Roy C. Smith, chairman of the House ways and means committee, and bitter opponent of Gov. Bradford's sales tax program, said today his group would offer a number of proposals early next week which would, if adopted, raise the "$20,000,000 required to balance the State budget."

He gave no inkling of what form the proposals would take.

Split-Tax Law For All States Seen in 1948

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Rep. Dighton (D.) of North Carolina said today he would press for legislation applying the community property principle to federal income taxes in all states effective Jan. 1.

Such legislation would reduce taxes by about $744,000,000 for 4,900,000 married couples who live outside the 10 states which have a community property law.

"If we cannot enact the necessary bill before Congress adjourns this year," Doughton said, "we certainly should be able to do it before tax estimates are due next March 15, and make it applicable as of Jan. 1."

Rep. Knudson (R.) of Minnesota has said the community property issue will be handled in a general tax revision bill next year.

Under community property laws husbands and wives may split their income for tax purposes, thus avoiding surtax rates of higher brackets.

Collier Owners In Final Parley

Having signed contracts with two CIO maritime unions, representatives of the Collier Owners Ass'n sat down with officers of the American Communications Ass'n, CIO radio operators union, today to negotiate a third and final pact which it is expected will end all threats of tying up the fleet of 32 coal carriers supplying 60 per cent of New England's bituminous coal.

Fishing Fleet Shuns Gloucester

6 GLOUCESTER, June 20—The fishing fleet shunned this port today as a strike of 1600 members of the Seafood Workers Union, AFL, went into its third day. Eight boats that did put into port left immediately in search of other markets when they found 21 processing plants shut down and 125 fishing vessels tied up at their piers.

Picket lines around waterfront plants effectively halted all work except that of maintenance men in freezers, and clean-up work of office personnel and supervisory forces seeking to salvage half a million pounds of fish still on docks and in danger of rotting. No move had been made by either State or Federal Conciliation Services to halt the strike.

Truman Aides Urge Veto of Rent Control

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Pres. Truman faced a new puzzler today after his dilemma on the labor bill—whether to let rent controls run out this month or sign an extension bill roundly denounced by his housing aides.

The Senate completed congressional action late yesterday on the measure extending rent control through next Feb. 15, with a proviso that ceilings can be lifted as much as 15 per cent if landlords and tenants agree on a lease running past Dec. 31, 1948.

The bill also knocks out all construction curbs except in the case of recreational type buildings, such as theaters and bowling alleys.

It was this provision which had prompted Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon to declare that enactment of the measure might wreck the housing program.

Creedon said material shortages are still too critical in many sections to permit unrestricted non-residential building "without disastrous consequences to home-building."

However, in the brief debate which preceded Senate passage of the measure by a voice vote, Sen. Sparkman (D.) of Alabama called the bill "better than no law at all." He said if it were not accepted, rent controls simply would end June 30.

Land-Going Cap'n Pays Traffic Fine

Capt. Johann A. Johansson, 47, of Priscilla Lane, Medford, capsule a 300-ton trawler in and out of the Boston Fish Pier like a baby haddock slipping through a torn net, but navigating around Hub taxicabs is another thing, or so the doughty skipper tried to explain in municipal court today.

Filled with scorn for landlubber taxi pilots, he told Judge Zottoli he grazed a cab in Tremont st. while driving home and the cabbie wanted $10 for an insignificant dent. Police officer John Ford happened along and booked the skipper on charges of drunkenness and driving under the influence.

When the captain explained he had to take his ship to sea this afternoon, Judge Zottoli filed the drunkenness charge (the captain admitted to only three hookers) and fined him $50.

Truman Urged to Visit Brazil, Hopes to Go

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—President Truman today received an official invitation to visit Brazil, and the White House said he hopes to be able to go.

Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Martins told reporters that Mr. Truman had accepted and hoped to make the trip "as soon as possible." But White House aides said: "The President told the ambassador he was happy to receive the invitation and hoped he would be able to come."

65,000 Hear Outdoor Mass In Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 20 (AP)—Some 65,000 Roman Catholics knelt in prayer in chill, damp air early today at an outdoor pontifical mass of the Marian Congress.

Thousands took communion, served by 100 priests at an altar rail stretching several hundred yards before a specially constructed blue and white repository. The congregation chanted its responses in unison to the Latin of the celebrant, Msgr. Ildebrando Antonutti, Apostolic delegate to Canada.

Throughout the day, other tens of thousands among the 100,000 pilgrims here for the religious spectacle attended other masses at which they offered prayers to the Virgin Mary for lasting peace.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, secretary of the sacred congregation of the Oriental Church in Rome, arrived here yesterday from the United States—the ninth prince of the church to come to Ottawa for the congress.

Communists Plan To Rule Canada

TORONTO, June 20 (AP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce declared today that Communists are more active in Canada now than ever.

Greeks Sign Pact For U. S. Aid Program

WASHINGTON, June 20 (INS)—An agreement for control of President Truman's Greek aid program was formally signed today with the Greek government in Athens.

Signing of the document enabled officials to throw into high gear their machinery for speeding United States assistance to Greece.

Jewish Leader Calls Job Bias Spur to Reds

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The Jewish labor committee declared today job discrimination in the United States "is doing more for the spreading of Communism than can hordes of totalitarian agents."

Adolph Held, chairman of the committee, called for enactment of legislation which would set up a national commission against discrimination in employment because of race or creed.

Boy Sleuths Cause Suspect's Arrest

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1947

Two 10-year-old schoolboys who played "cops and robbers" in earnest were responsible for the arrest of an alleged subway locker burglar, it was revealed in municipal court today with arraignment of Vincent B. McGaffigan, 35, of Whitten st., Dorchester.

McGaffigan pleaded not guilty to having burglar tools in his possession and to wanton injury to property. After listening to the story told by the two boys, John Griffin of Mercier ave. and Donald Favler, Bailey st., both grade school pupils, Judge Zottoli held McGaffigan in $1500 bail for the grand jury.

The boys told the court they watched McGaffigan and another

MODEST EATER

SEATTLE, June 20 (AP)—Feeling a bit hungry at 6 p. m. and unable to wait for an eating contest, Police Patrolman Bill Hill polished off a snack of two hamburger steaks, four platters of spaghetti, five cups of coffee and two dishes of ice cream.

A couple of hours later he entered—and won—a steak-eating derby, wrapping himself around seven steaks.

"I could have eaten more," Hill said, "but everybody else quit and I didn't want to show off."

man trying to pry open lockers in the South Station subway station then called Police Officer John F. Powers. Powers said the other man ran when he grabbed McGaffigan.

"could a woman of the height and weight and general physical make-up of the defendant have caused the injury?"

"I'll exclude that question," interrupted Judge Forte. "All the witnesses may testify is the amount of force."

Wheatley tried once more:
"In your opinion, is a woman of the size of the defendant strong enough to apply the amount of force?" He began but Townes objected and Judge Forte excluded the question.

After a bench conference, which was later resumed in the lobby during the morning recess, Wheatley tried without success to get into the record the size of the thumb which caused the nailmark and impression on the victim's throat.

Townes then took the doctor in cross-examination and established the fact that the blood analysis showed no alcoholic content.
In layman's language, then, he was sober," asked Townes, and the doctor agreed.

The doctor admitted that he had seen no "beer or tonic bottles" in the Cote living room. In direct examination he had testified the head wounds could have been inflicted by such a bottle.

Townes questioned him at length on the throat injuries with a view to establishing that considerable strength would be required to inflict them.

"Manual strangulation in this case would have required very powerful hands, wouldn't it?" he asked.

"Not necessarily," the doctor replied and the pair entered into a lengthy discussion on the effect of body pressure and its communication of strength to the fingers.
The doctor added that a strong hand or hands would not be needed if there was sufficient body pressure exerted.

Townes then drew from him an admission that cuts on knuckles of each hand of the defendant, the lacerations of the lips and the letter were consistent with a fist fight in which the slain man had struck and been struck several blows.

He said he had seen the defendant on the morning of the killing and that he had noticed no marks or bruises on her face.

The soft-spoken doctor said the papa-mama body of the victim found on the floor of his third-floor apartment in Harvard st.
Brookline, was first examined about 5 p. m. on the murder morning and later removed to a nearby undertaking parlor where the autopsy was performed.

Just before Dr. Leavitt began his medical testimony, he was called on to identify the wrist watch of a false tooth—part of the bridgework in the victim's mouth.
Dr. Leavitt identified the watch and testified he had removed it from the victim's left wrist and turned it over to police at the autopsy.

As Wheatley passed the watch to Townes for examination there was a slight clink of falling metal, leading to the impression Mrs.

Cote's hand had dropped it.
Both he and Wheatley paws at the floor, interchanging low voiced comments and finally Wheatley displaying the watch to the jurors, explaining the "clink" and had dropped off as he was passing it to the defense counsel.

Dr. Leavitt then testified the minute hand was the same when he examined it a minute before. The watch and hand were placed in an envelope and marked as an exhibit.

Wheatley then showed the tooth which Dr. Leavitt said was a fragment found in a pool of blood in the Cote living room.

The sides were gray and there was a trace of rain in the air as Mrs. Cote arrived and entered the side door of the courthouse in the car from the jail.

Once again she was wearing her black and white ensemble with her tan coat. As she stepped from the car she smiled graciously at photographers, but made no pause as she walked through the door and upstairs to the waiting room.

Some 10 minutes before she arrived at the courthouse, her mother, Mrs. Laura Armstrong Surpass, accompanied by Ber-tha's sister, Mrs. Judith Dragon, walked up the steps to the courthouse and entered the same anteroom to await the defendant's arrival.

The courtroom was well filled several minutes before Judge
Forte took the bench.

Mrs. Cote was relaxed and smile-ing when she entered the courtroom. In a morning conference with her counsel, she reported she was "pleased and satisfied at yesterday's developments."

The attractive defendant had good reason. She had heard Miss Margaret Minnoch, her nearest neighbor and an important State witness, tell the jury that she was "a loving and devoted wife, and a devoted and wonderful mother."

And, Mrs. Minnoch had added, the woman accused of husband-murder was "a good woman."

Defense Pathologist J. Stewart
Rooney of Harvard Medical School came to sit at the defense counsel table with Townes and Atty.
Edward Stevens, to listen to Dr.
Leavitt's testimony and coach Townes for cross-examination—as he did defense counsel Herbert F.
Callahan in the successful defense of Charles Russell Goodale.

Dr. Rooney yesterday accepted an offer from Wheatley of a chance to examine prosecution microscope slides and the organs of the murdered man at Harvard.
The state also had Dr. Henry J. Fisher of Harvard on hand and may call him as a witness. Dr.
Fisher is an assistant at Harvard to Dr. Alan R. Morris, state pathologist, who is on a trip and unable to testify at the Cote trial.

Following the medical testimony, Wheatley said, he will call Mrs. Alice Winberg, owner of the house at 72 Harvard st., Brookline, where the murder took place.

Mrs. Winberg occupied the first floor and was summoned by Mrs.
Cote to the third floor west wing after 4 a. m. on Dec. 28, 1946.

Solons Seek End Of Gas Export

Restraint of gasoline and oil shipments to Soviet Russia was the goal of Congressional leaders today on the crest of a nationwide wave of resentment at shipment of critically needed materials to the Soviet Union.

Jamming in the protest was the Massachusetts House which voted a resolution calling for a ban on further oil shipments to Russia, as the Mass. Division of Securities of life called on consolidators to fill their home fuel tanks now to prepare for winter.

In Washington, Sen. Gurney of South Dakota, chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee revealed that heavy shipments of gas and oil are permitted to Russia while the U. S. Navy is forced to curtail flying activities because of fuel shortages.

woman, according to Mrs. Minnock.

With Mrs. Minnock under cross-examination, the defense also made a point by bringing out that Mrs. Cote had undergone an operation and was seeing a doctor about a lump in her breast.

Placed beside testimony about Cote's alleged philandering, that could not help but arouse a feeling of sympathy.

For the prosecution, Mrs. Minnock put it on record that Mrs. Cote was greatly upset by her husband's affair with another woman.

For the prosecution, Mrs. Minnock told of a quarrel between the husband who was bludgeoned to death and the wife who is now on trial for her life.

For the prosecution, Mrs. Minnock told the 14-man jury of mysterious sounds in the Cote apartment preceding the murder, climaxed by a terrific crash after which she said there was a delay of 10 minutes before Mrs. Cote came downstairs screaming for help.

And for the prosecution, Mrs. Cote's nearest neighbor, living on the second floor of the Harvard st. house of death, placed Mrs. Cote there alone with her husband.

However, Atty. Townes brought out that Mrs. Minnock in spite of her opinion that nobody else went up or down the stairs to the Cote flat that morning, was not always in a position to hear movement over those backstairs, only way of reaching the third floor.

Earlier, Mrs. Minnock's mother, Mrs. Frances Gallagher, 80, another prosecution witness, described the accused 26-year-old widow as a good wife and mother.

IMMORTAL NAME

A son's wish to take the name of his father was quickly fulfilled in Salem court today when Judge John V. Phelan dispensed with a hearing and granted George Patton IV, 23, of Hamilton, the right to assume the name of his illustrious father, George Smith Patton.

Patton, now a second lieutenant in the army, told the judge simply he would like to follow in his father's footsteps and bear his name. With him in court was his mother, Mrs. Beatrice Patton, widow of the general.

Elopers Sentenced In Auto Shooting

NORTHAMPTON, June 20 (AP)—Edward Hawkins, 20, of Chicago, was sentenced in Superior Court today to five to six years in State Prison on a charge of assault with intent to rob Prof. Norman Butterfield of Rhode Island State College.

The youth's companion, 19-year-old Pansy Herman, received a suspended sentence to the women's reformatory in Framingham and was placed on probation for 18 months.

Hawkins and girl, who said they were eloping, hitchhiked a ride June 8, and the youth ordered Butterfield out of the car and shot him in both legs, leaving him to crawl to a nearby farmhouse for aid.

FLEES HUNGARIAN REDS

Attacker Beats Cambridge Wife

A mysterious assailant, foiled in an attempted criminal attack, seriously injured Mrs. Eleanor Sasso, 43, of Green st., Cambridge, today when he struck her on the head with a length of pipe.

Recovering consciousness in Cambridge City Hospital, Mrs. Sasso, whose name is on the danger list, told police she was awakened in her bedroom by a man smashing the single electric light bulb.

When she struggled out of his grasp, she told officers, he snarled, "Well, I'm glad I brought this along," and brought the pipe down on her head. Afraid he might wait for her in the corridor, she lowered herself out of her first-floor window and then lost consciousness in the backyard, where neighbors found her.

Mrs. Sasso is estranged from her husband, now living in the West End of Boston.

Francis MacDonnell; retiring president, James O'Keefe; president-elect, Edward F. Byrne, Patrick Cosgrove, world traveler and reporter, and Col. John L. Donovan, Jr., former Cathedral Club president.

WHO IS SHE? — Police of Yreka, Cal., are making efforts to determine the identity of this three-year-old girl who was found unconscious in a clump of bushes in that city. She had apparently been beaten.

Seek to Remove Crusading Pastor

ROSE CITY, Mich., June 20 (INS)—Rose City officials today said Prosecutor Melvin Orr may ask Methodist Bishop Raymond J. Wade to remove crusading Pastor Cecil H. Scott from his pulpit as a safety measure.

Orr could not confirm the report, but he said a "vast majority" of village residents, including church trustees and prominent citizens, agreed removal was the only solution. His interviews followed a night of demonstration against the pastor, which did not end until law enforcement officials from other communities appeared at 3 a. m.

Mayor Norton King and the Rose City Council postponed for 24 hours a mass meeting, at Orr's request. He said he feared the demonstrations might be repeated and asked a delay while he tried to work out a solution. Orr was expected to meet with the bishop.

Wade said he had not received a request from Orr to remove Rev. Mr. Scott, adding: "He's appointed for a year. I don't expect any other outcome."

Wreckage of U. S. Plane Lost in Labrador Sighted

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, June 20 (AP)—The wreckage of a United States Army Air Forces plane which was lost in March with three men was sighted from the air today.

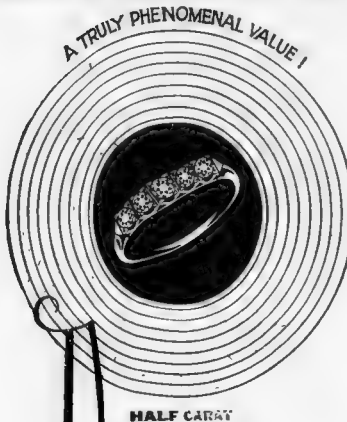

The plane, a single-engine Norseman, disappeared March 13 on a flight to Goose Bay from Cape Harrison, 150 miles north-east of here. Aboard it were Lt. Edward Tague of Bossier, La., and William Haemker of Lowell, Ind., and Sgt. Patrick Hayes of Green Bay, Wis.

Tire Output Soars, But Not to Pre-War Level

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Inventories of passenger car tires rose to 4,399,795 by April 30, compared with 2,411,595 a year before, but still below normal pre-war levels, of seven to eight million units, the Rubber Manufacturers Ass'n reported today.

Passenger car tire production in the first four months totaled 27,002,089 against 20,113,196 in the similar 1946 period. Output in April was 6,711,133, a drop of 3.76 per cent from the 6,937,234 in March.

guilty verdict for the defendant and proceeded to hear evidence on the charge of disturbing the peace brought by his wife.

Mrs. Whittall said she lives on Perry ave., Worcester, and that her husband drinks one to two quarts of liquor a day and that he always carried loaded guns and had threatened to kill her. She said he carried one gun on each hip.

Since taking her job as a waitress, she declared, her husband has been visiting the restaurant and following her "practically every night."

Once she said she appealed to the police, and they accompanied her home to find her husband there drunk and carrying a loaded gun. Mrs. Whittall said at this point:

"The police saw he was a Whittall, so nothing mattered."

Her husband, she declared, had called her on the telephone all hours of the morning, annoying her and her friends, and had attempted to bring about her discharge at the hotel.

After the evidence was concluded, the judge ordered a verdict of not guilty on the second charge.

Docket records at the Worcester Superior Court show that two suits have been filed by Mrs. Ann Frances Whittall against Betsy Whittin Whittall and Mathew Percival Whittall.

JERUSALEM, June 20 (AP)—The United Nations Palestine Committee descends today into the world's lowest area—the Dead Sea coast—to continue its on-the-spot study of the knotty Holy Land problem in the face of an official Arab boycott and signs of uninterrupted Jewish extremist preparations.

The 11-nation committee, which yesterday saw Haifa with its mixed Jewish-Arab-Christian population, planned to stop today at the all-Arab city of Jericho and the Jewish settlement of Beth Haaravna, both in the Dead Sea neighborhood at the southern end of the Jordan river valley. The body of water is 1286 feet below sea level.

Before visiting these communities, committeemen were scheduled to inspect the potash works.

Farley Bares FD Views on Political Aides

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—James A. Farley said President Roosevelt told him he did not think the Democrats should run Henry A. Wallace for President in 1940 because "you never know what Henry will do."

Farley, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, related the story in the second of a Collier's magazine series of articles on "Why I Broke With Roosevelt."

The name of Wallace, then Agriculture Secretary, came up in dinner conversation at the White House the night of April 12, 1938, Farley said.

He quoted the late President as commenting:

"Henry would like to run for President. However, I'd rather have a fellow like Ickes, who, at least, is a fighter."

"Ickes will go through with whatever he has in mind. But you never know what Henry will do."

But on another occasion, Farley recalled, the President spoke in a different vein of Harold L. Ickes, then Interior Secretary. Farley quoted Mr. Roosevelt: "I think Harold Ickes is responsible for many of the errors that leak out of Cabinet meetings."

The current article depicts Mr. Roosevelt as a man who thought former Mayor LaGuardia of New York had a swelled head and considered former Treasury Sec. Morgenthau a fustbudget.

Farley said he told Mr. Roosevelt, in discussing LaGuardia for Governor of New York:

"I just can't believe the Democrats would turn over the party to LaGuardia. He is an opportunist and would desert at a moment's notice if he thought it would be to his advantage."

Farley added that the President replied:

"Yes, LaGuardia has a swelled head, and it's my guess that he has presidential aspirations."

Bradley Warns U.S. Next War Target

MILWAUKEE, June 20 (AP)—Gen. Bradley said today that "if we once again risk disaster by turning our backs on the world, we shall not be given another chance."

"There is not enough room in the world for civilization and atomics conflict," he said.

"Twice the United States has snatched victory out of defeat as the arsenal of democracy. In the event of another war, we shall become the target."

The veterans administrator disparaged talk of "another and inevitable war," however. People who follow this line display a lack of faith in America, he said in an address prepared for the national convention of the American Veterans Committee.

24 Names Providence Cop in Holdup Trial

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 20 (AP)—Frank Martinelli, who turned state's evidence at the police-underworld conspiracy trial here, today was subjected to intensive cross-examination by the defense.

Martinelli, who before the trial opened pleaded role to conspiracy charges and threw himself on the mercy of the court, yesterday named Henry Cipriano as leader of the gang that broke into the Weybosset Pre Food Market and looted the safe Feb. 9.

He named George B. Harris, one of the two suspended policemen on trial, as the one with whom Cipriano conferred for last-minute directions on how to break into the market.

Gay 90's Party Prelude To Ford-Firestone Wedding

AKRON, O., June 20 (AP)—Amid the atmosphere created by two ancient Ford automobiles and a horse-and-buggy rig, Martha Parke Firestone and William Clay Ford completed pre-nuptial ceremonies leading to their marriage tomorrow.

The two cars—gleaming with polished brass despite their vintage of 1908 and 1911 and the rubber-tired buggy saluted the fame of the couple's grandfathers, the late Henry Ford and Harvey S. Firestone, Sr., as 250 guests attended a dinner dance honoring the prospective bride and bridegroom last night.

Conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Firestone, the party was held at the riding ring of the Firestone estate.

The riding ring was decorated in a "Gay Nineties" pattern, tables covered with red checkered tablecloths.

The bride-to-be, wearing a pale blue faille gown with strapless fitted bodice, and young Ford occupied the spotlight. The ring was decorated with posters of humorous scenes of the late 19th century. An old-fashioned barbershop quartet completed the scene.

Another reception will follow the wedding scheduled for 4:30 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

26 Cote Death Blows Described

BOSTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1947

taken from the body of Cote.
Q—Is this the watch that was taken off the body. A—Yes, it is. Judge Forte summoned counsel to the bench for a conference after which Wheatley stated that there being no objection he offered the watch as an exhibit. It was admitted.

Q—You identify this watch as the one that was on the deceased. A—Yes.

Q—And one of the hands is off now. A—Yes.

Q—And the crystal is off. A—Yes.

Q—Did you observe the time that the watch recorded when it was taken off. A—Yes.

Q—What time was it. A—4:05.

Q—In the morning. A—Yes.

Q—You note that the crystal is broken. A—Yes.

Q—Was there any glass around there. A—Yes.

Q—And there was a hand missing. A—Yes.

Q—Which hand was missing. A—The minute hand.

Q—Was it missing at that time. A—I do not recall.

Q—But you are sure of the time that the watch would designate. A—Yes.

Q—Were there glass fragments around there. A—Yes, some on the divan, others on the floor.

Q—You recognized the glass fragments as coming from the watch. A—Yes.

Q—Where were the glass fragments on the floor. A—Near the blood stain.

Q—And you found a tooth. A—Yes.

Q—Was that a natural tooth or a false tooth. A—That was a false tooth.

Q—And what did you do with that tooth. A—I do not recall, right now. When I examined it I returned it to one of the officers.

Q—And you later checked on the position in the mouth that tooth came from. A—I did.

Q—Wheatley showed him a picture exhibit and pointed out to Wheatley and jury where the tooth came from. A—Yes.

Q—Did you observe a cloth or some such thing between the room where the body was and the living room. A—Yes.

Q—What was it. A—I do not know, I'm sure.

Q—Was it a towel. A—It may have been but it looked to me more like a pillow case.

Q—And you performed an autopsy. A—Yes, I did.

Q—Where did you perform it. A—At the Hickey undertaking rooms.

Q—Who was there. A—Dr. Moritz, Dr. Fisher, two women witnesses, Sgt. Roche—no, I believe it was Sgt. Bradley.

Q—During the examination of the body what did you find—what did that examination of the body disclose to you with relation to the appearance of the body and the clothing. A—It was the body of a white male, clad in a suit of blue cotton pajamas, with the coat of pajamas unbuttoned. It was a well-developed, well-nourished body about 35 years of age. It was sixty-two and one-half inches in height. He estimated the weight as 140 pounds. There were extensive and external cuts and abrasions on the body. There was dried blood around the nose and mouth, more to the left than to the right, and there was blood on the left ear.

Q—The ear was markedly swollen and bruised, with a part of the cartilage damaged, with a cut on the back part of the ear. That is through the skin there was a break into the cartilage. There was an extended swelling and blood clots on the head over the left side of the face. On the top of the head over the opening of the ear there was a blood clot three inches wide by one and one-half inches. They went from the front and behind and opposite the ear.

Q—Were those wounds consistent with wounds that could have been caused by some blow from some instrument. A—Yes, they were, and there was an injury below the level of the opening of the ear (the points it out on his own ear). There was a swelling estimated at one inch over the temple, which showed an injury in side. There was a one-half horizontal injury—a laceration—on the upper eyelid that hit the bone.

Q—It was about one-half inch long. A—Yes. And there was a one-half inch abrasion that showed on the upper left ear forward. There were two deep lacerations on the upper lip.

Q—What type of blow would you say caused these injuries. A—There are various types of blows that might have caused them—an instrument, a fist, hard pressure against a hard surface.

Q—Such as a fall. A—Yes.

Q—You examined the tissues on the soft side of the mouth—from the inside. A—Yes.

Q—And you saw where the missing tooth went. A—Yes.

Q—And it came from a bridge. A—Yes. There was a conquarter abrasion on the inside of the lip over the central and right part of the neck, below the jaws. There were multiple small abrasions.

Q—The witness identified these on pictures shown him and as he continued Judge Forte called counsel to the bench.

It was apparent from the next question that Judge Forte was disturbed because the Commonwealth had not connected up the body in the funeral parlor with the body in the Cote home.

Wheatley resumed the questioning.

Q—Is the body that you have described now the same body that you saw in the third floor apartment at 72 Harvard st. A—Yes.

Q—Now will you continue your description of the injuries you found on the outside. A (pointing with his left hand to a point over the left eye and reading from his notes)—About one inch in toward the front there was an abrasion about a half-inch in length. Here (pointing to a point on the right shoulder) there was a yellowish bruise three-quarters of an inch in length.

Q—Was that an old bruise. A—Several days old, I should judge.

Q—Anything else. A (Holding out his right hand)—On the lateral aspect of the right palm at the base of the thumb there was a bruise one-half inch in length and a similar area over the right little finger, while the left wrist and hand (holding out his hand) bore a series of small bruises and abrasions.

At this point he described the small bruises on the back of the fingers of both hands.

Q—These bruises you have described were all on the back of the right hand. A—Yes.

Q—Did you notice anything else externally Doctor. A—No.

Q—You may then proceed with the internal injuries that you found. A—The skull was incised and the skin pulled forward and back like this—showing the jury how the skin from the top of the skull was pulled forward over the eyes and back to the base of the brain.

Q—What did you find when you had done this. A—There was a blood clot which covered the area.

Q—And what else did you observe. A—The top of the skull was depressed and broken. The skull cap was removed by a saw cut and.

Q—This photograph here, marked G for identification, shows the skull cut away. A—Yes.

Mr. Wheatley took the photograph to Attorney Townes who studied it with Dr. J. Stewart Rooney.

Townes—I object to this being offered as an exhibit.

The court—I'll admit it and save your exception, Mr. Townes. Wheatley then passed the picture to the foreman for the jury to examine.

Q—Tell us what you did and what you observed. A—The skull was taken off and up here (pointing to the top of the skull) was a complete fracture and depression which measured 2½ by 1½ inches. Within this hole I observed that to the left and front it was more deeply depressed.

He then described to the jury the small breaks running from the main fracture which he described as two in number, running down the left side of the skull, which terminated at a point over the top of the left ear.

Q—Where did you say blow was. A—Just above the ear, which made a fracture line.

Q—Now, doctor, tell us about the fracture you found on the top of head. Was there another source of damage. A—Yes.

Q—And was there evidence that two fractures joined. A—Yes.

Q—Was there a fracture on the skull, just over the ear. A—Yes, second bone was broken and the third disclosed discoloration, also a depression.

Q—As a result of your examination, have you an opinion following your description of the skull, were the injuries a result of blows. A—Yes, two blows.

Q—You made an examination of the neck. A—There were marks of a hemorrhage of the muscles on the left side of neck. There were extreme hemorrhages on the neck, left of the esophagus.

Q—Did the fractures of the two join in a number of places. A—They did.

Q—Now would you tell us whether or not there was a depression of the bone of the skull just underneath the top part of the ear or over the top part of the ear. A—Yes, sir, there was.

Q—What is the shape, general shape of that depression. A—On the second one that I described the bone was out, was sprung a little bit out of the fracture, they were depressed as shown in the picture.

Q—All right. Now in your opinion, or have you an opinion, doctor, as to whether the injuries which you have described to us concerning the skull were the result of more than one blow. A—The two injuries that I have described now I believe were the result of two blows.

Q—Have you an opinion as to which blow may have been struck first. A—No, sir.

Q—All right. Will you go on with your description of the injuries which you discovered internally. A—There was hemorrhage outside the covering of the brain and there was hemorrhage in the inside covering of the brain. There was moderate hemorrhage above and below the tentorial membrane, which is the membrane running under the main brain and separates it from the smaller brain, the cerebellum. That is deep in the skull. It is very difficult to get at it. Both the parietal and the lower surface of the temporal lobes of the brain showed multiple small hemorrhages.

Q—All right. Now, will you tell us what your examination of the neck muscles and throat muscles revealed. A—There was moderate hemorrhage of the muscles on the left side of the neck. There was extensive hemorrhage in the left muscles of the neck extending behind to the esophagus.

Q—Where is the esophagus. A—The esophagus is behind the wind pipe. It is the tube that goes from the throat down to the stomach, through which food passes. On the right, the hemorrhagic diffusion was scanty and seen only at the level of the larynx. The right horn of the thyroid bone was found to be fractured, hanging on the external and upper margins, indicating that the fracturing force was exerted principally from below. Both upper horns of the thyroid cartilage were fractured and the fusion between the thyroid laminae in front was disrupted and the right lamina was fractured.

Q—Did you find any injury or condition which was not normal on the rest of the body. A—No, sir.

Q—All right, doctor, now from your examination, both at the autopsy and what you observed in the room at this third-floor apartment when you first observed the body, have you an opinion as to what caused the death of Rene Cote. A—I believe that he died of extensive cranial brain injury caused by several blunt impacts to the head, and coincidentally with the receipt of these injuries the deceased's neck had been grasped manually with sufficient violence to cause strangulation and to produce severe injuries in the vicinity of the air passages.

MRS. MARGARET MINNOCK, OF BROCKTON
Neighbor Testifies She Heard "Awful Crash"

Q—Now you have said several blows by several blunt instruments. Is that your answer. A—I did not say instruments. I did not intend to. Impacts, several blunt impacts to the head.

Q—How many is several, doctor. A—Well, there were two important impacts.

Q—And are those the ones that you have described to us as generally on the top of the head and the one over the left ear. A—Yes, sir.

Q—Have you an opinion as to whether the injuries which you observed—whether either one of them could have caused death. A—I believe either one of them could have caused death.

Q—Now have you an opinion, doctor, as to whether, assuming there had not been those blows to the head, as to whether the injury which you observed to the neck of this person would have or could have caused the death. A—It might have.

Q—You just don't know. A—I don't know.

Q—Have you an opinion in this case as to whether it did cause the death of this person. A—I don't believe so, sir.

Q—And what is the basis for that opinion, doctor. A—Because the other injuries were so severe that they are the likely cause of death.

Q—Have you an opinion as to whether the injuries or as to how the injuries which were suffered to this person's head were caused. A—They were caused by blows.

Q—Blows of what type or kind of an instrument. A—I should say a blunt instrument.

Q—And by what would you do mean. How would you describe it. A—Well, an instrument without sharp edges.

Q—Would the blows suffered on the top of the head and the side of the head or the injury be consistent with the blows by a beer bottle. A—I could not say.

Q—A tonic bottle. A—I could.

Q—A rolling pin. A—Yes, sir.

Q—By the handle, the iron handle, of a wrench. A—Not unless it was wrapped in something, I don't believe, sir.

Q—And why do you say that, you give us an opinion as to the size of the thumb that caused this mark. A—Because my perception of the iron handle of a wrench is I think it has a sharp edge.

Q—And having a sharp edge, why do you say that instrument could not have been used in this case on those two blows. A—You would expect that there would have been, if that type of an instrument had been used, we would expect to see cuts or lacerations in the scalp externally.

Q—All right. Now, with reference to the injury which you have told us about; that is, the cut over the left eye, have you an opinion as to how that may have been caused. A—That could have been caused several ways.

Q—And could it have been caused by a blow with a fist. A—I could.

Q—By a blow with an instrument. A—I could.

Q—By a fall on the floor. A—Yes, sir.

Q—Now, have you an opinion as to how the injuries which the deceased suffered on his upper lip; that is, the cut from the outside or the cut on the inside, what might have caused that injury. A—That could have been caused by falling on the floor; that could have been caused by a fist; it could have been caused by being hit with some instrument.

Q—All right; now with reference to the injury to the neck, doctor, have you an opinion as to how this injury was inflicted upon this person. A—I believe it was caused by being grasped by the neck.

Q—And what is the basis for that opinion, doctor. A—The basis of that opinion is the marks on the neck and injury to the deep structures of the neck.

Q—That is all.

During the recess counsel for both sides were closeted in the lobby with Justice Forte for 25 minutes. At the conclusion of the conference Dr. Leavitt resumed the stand. Mr. Wheatley picked up a photograph of the victim's head showing the neck.

A recess was called.

Q—I ask you to observe that mark here and give us your opinion as to what caused it. A—in my opinion it was caused by a thumb.

Q—How large is it. A (Referring to his notes)—It measures three-quarters of an inch.

Q—From looking at that mark can you give us your opinion as to the size of the thumb that caused it. A—it would be smaller.

Q—Why do you say that, doctor. A—Because if you take your thumb (now demonstrates) and place it in the soft flesh (now pressing his right thumb in the soft flesh of his right arm), the pressing causes the area being pressed to become larger.

Q—From your experience, can you give us an opinion as to the size of the thumb that caused this mark.

Townes—I object, Your Honor. The court—I'll exclude it.

Cross-Examination

Townes then began cross-examination.

TWO TIMELY WARNINGS

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have had the benefit of two entirely competent and completely honest appraisals of the dangers inherent in both the current international situation and the unsound measures adopted by the American Government in its efforts to cope with that situation.

A former President of the United States, Mr. Herbert Hoover, has said in response to an inquiry by Chairman Bridges of the Senate Appropriations Committee:

"The obstruction of the Soviet Government to peace has, during the past two years, imposed billions in expenditures upon us through support of occupation armies and relief to starvation which would not otherwise have been required . . .

"The conclusion seems to be irrefutable that as a result of our rate of GIVING AND LENDING we are over-exporting and cannot continue at such a rate with our present production and consumption WITHOUT FURTHER EVIL CONSEQUENCES TO OUR STABILITY."

The retiring Undersecretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, has said with equal emphasis that Russia is solely responsible for the obstruction of postwar recovery and peacemaking which has cost the American people so heavily, having deliberately and consistently pursued policies "diametrically OPPOSED to the very premises of international accord and recovery."

Mr. Hoover grimly pointed out to Senator Bridges that, in consequence of the huge and needless European relief needs created by Russia and from which Russia hugely and solely profits, the United States is DRAINING OFF ITS OWN ECONOMIC RESOURCES at the rate of FIFTEEN BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

In thus depleting our resources, said Mr. Hoover, we are not only impairing our productivity and stability, but we are actually IMPOVERISHING ourselves.

We are an OVER-TAXED nation largely because of that fact, he declared.

We are a DEBT-BURDENED nation substantially because of it, he observed.

We are approaching a state of impotency as a supplier of the world's dire needs and our own essential needs as well, he warned, because of our continued floundering in the ECONOMIC TRAP Russia has set for us.

"The greatest danger to all civilization is for us to IMPAIR OUR ECONOMY with drains which CRIPPLE OUR OWN PRODUCTIVITY," concluded Mr. Hoover.

The limits of any nation's effectiveness as an agency of world assistance, as Mr. Hoover urged, are fixed by its own minimum needs for a productive economy.

Any nation which accepts a relief burden in excess of those limits is itself in headlong decline. It must, therefore, inevitably impair the living standards of its people and ultimately impoverish them.

"We must seriously reduce the volume of exports below the rate of the last two years, with a corresponding reduction in the GIFTS AND LOANS for which we supply goods," advised Mr. Hoover, or else become merely one more of the many debtor nations of the world—which is Soviet Russia's hope and intention.

NEEDLESS FAMINE

A SERIOUS and widespread shortage of fuel oil has been predicted by Congressman John W. McCormack, who says that householders and factory managers can minimize its harmful effects by filling their tanks during the summer.

The leading Democrat would not be issuing this warning if the Governors and legislators of the New England States had taken the right kind of interest in water power.

A prolonged coal and petroleum shortage would be disastrous for New England, since it could not fail to curtail production in most industries and reduce employment.

This could never happen if obstructive and monopolistic laws were repealed and free private enterprise given the necessary incentive to build dams, reservoirs and other facilities for the generation of low-cost hydroelectric power.

SPRANG out of bed at eight this morning, donned swimming trunks and jumped into the briny deep located only a couple of hundred yards from where we are now domiciled. I was followed by the pup barking enthusiastically. As he hopped in, he was hit by a wave and knocked back to the beach. He growled at the wave, picked himself up and dived in again. This time he dived through the wave. This was his first ocean swim. He certainly caught on quickly. A remarkable animal.

PLEASE NOTE: In this world there are nice people and people who are not so nice. There are regular fellows and there are heels in all racial groups and nationalities. It has always been my policy to take people for what they are. That is, for what their character is. People often speak or write to me condemning racial or religious groups as a whole. I don't like it. Because in so doing, they are insulting friends of mine whom I know to be wonderful people. This is the first time I have introduced this note into this department, but I want those who honor me with their attention to know where I stand.

S A I D SARAH: I, Sarah Bernhardt, who said: "I always swore if I ever married it would be simply to make myself more popular with all men; for I was never blind to the fact that men like women better when they are another man's property."

SHOWER SINGING—After a swim we took a 15-minute run along the beach. Then to the showers where I sang "By the Sea, By the Beautiful Sea," "Bessie's the Belle of the Bathers," "Did You Mean What You Said," "On the Beach at Waikiki" and "This Is the Life." I like the country with its green fields and running brooks but I am always happiest by the sea.

ASKING—Queries from clients—Q—Was there a play called "The Ninety and Nine"? A—Believe there was. I never saw it but think it was produced in the same period as "The Old Homestead," "Way Down East" and "Shore Acres" ask your grandpappy about it. Q—Why is it women keep looking so neat when coatless and men look so sloppy when wearing a shirt minus a coat? A—Not all men look sloppy when coatless. The U. S. Army lads and Marines manage to look neat without a coat.

Reason many men don't look so well coatless is that they wear a type of shirt not adapted to the situation. Q—Who doesn't pay to be honest, but doesn't pay enough to suit some fellows. A—Sounds like a Kin Hubbard crack to me.

FATHER'S SONGS—Another Father's Day has passed and there is still a great scarcity of father songs. Not one, in fact, that can be classed as good. It is sad to reflect that the most popular of all father songs so far is "Everybody Works But Father." "Daddy You've Been More Than a Mother to Me" is a good song, but only applies to fathers who are widowers.

PETS—A New Yorker says her husband and herself have a mouse named Wilbur for a pet. They also have a cat named Mickey. She adds: "Wilbur and Mickey get along splendidly." Very interesting. I was talking to a fellow today who has five cats and three dogs for pets. The eight animals live together in comparative peace. "When the dogs get a little fresh," says their owner, "the cats just slap them down until they behave."

MULES & MEN—This department receives many letters from feminine subscribers praising their husbands. Most of these communications come from Chicago and Baltimore. I have noted the spouses most highly praised are second husbands. That is not difficult to understand. A woman married once chooses a second husband more carefully. In addition, her experience has usually taught her to bear with the faults of man and to appreciate his virtues. Besides, she knows more about pleasing men than the neophyte in the matrimonial field. A pleased husband is naturally a good husband.

BRIEFLY—Am asked to suggest a good name for a club of bald-headed men. I suggest it be called the Socrates club. Socrates, one of the smartest fellows of all time, was bald.

BEEF TRUST—Now touring the burlesque houses is a troupe known as "The Beef Trust." The women in this aggregation weigh 250 pounds or over. One, who does an imitation of Gypsy Rose Lee, weighs 350 pounds. The original "Beef Trust" of burlesque was "Billy Watson's Beef Trust." The women in this show were husky rather than fat. That is, they were more statuesque than grotesque. Their figures were of the Lillian Russell type. Their average weight was probably around 160 pounds.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, June 20—The nature of the cultural and spiritual circle of Nicholas Roerich, the Russian painter and Orientalist, is clearly suggested by correspondence of the group and the testimony of individuals offered in a lawsuit over the ownership of the lamasery on Riverside Drive in 1936.

Westbrook Pegler

The Guru letters, which were offered to the Republicans in the 1940 campaign as political ammunition against Wallace, are couched in terms generally similar to those regularly employed by acknowledged members of the cult.

Some members of this circle regarded Roerich as a God. However, some who so revered him in the 'Twenties, when the cult was going strong, now insist that their interest was entirely worldly and never spiritual.

LOUIS L. HORCH, a protégé of Henry Wallace and his appointee to several government positions in the Departments of Agriculture and Commerce, says he was too sensible ever to subscribe to such nonsense.

NEVERTHELESS, in one letter written from Paris on Dec. 8, 1936, Horch spoke of Roerich as "our beloved master."

Another, also, apparently from a foreign city, addressed to "my dear ones" in the cult, says:

"If you would see here how people are, not only financially but spiritually, you would see how badly a new teacher is needed. And to think that we have this great privilege given us to help prepare the way. I sometimes think I will lose my mind, so much joy it gives me. And what wonderful and important work you will have to do, first in America and then in Russia."

A LETTER to "my dearest brother Arivaeh," a cult name for one of the associates, is an interesting mixture of the mundane and the spiritual:

"Your waterworks looks good," a reference to the stock of American waterworks, which was an active issue in the stock market gambling of that time, 1927. "Remington is a star puzzle to me. Today the market broke severely and this stock went up. The show finally arrived. Much love. I am sending this in my best spiritual thoughts. As ever in his (Roerich's) name, your Logvan."

Logvan was Horch's cult name. MRS. NETTIE HORCH, the wife of Logvan, was called Porooma. A letter from Porooma to the Roerichs, written from the Mauretania, said:

"Mingled with our sorrow (at leaving) was the joy of entering a new field of service in the name of our beloved teacher (Roerich). We have been blessed by his holy presence which we feel constantly near us."

Porooma wrote to "my dearest Gurus" (the Roerichs) on Sept. 17, 1923:

"Yesterday our little group met here. I brought out the signs to give one to each. Upon receiving hers Mrs. . . . went into a trance and then the wonderful miracle happened. Our astonishment was great at the unusual display of power. No doubt you have received the last writings and visions from Radna. I am very sorry to have missed the seance."

LOGVAN WROTE "my dearest mother," in September, 1924, that "Mr. May, of the Moscow Industrial Bank, returned."

"He speaks gloomily about conditions in Europe," Logvan said. "He promised to write in his next letter to his bank in Moscow about me and the silver business."

Horch was not only a trader in foreign exchange but also a speculator. Silver, of course, was one of the chips used in the game.

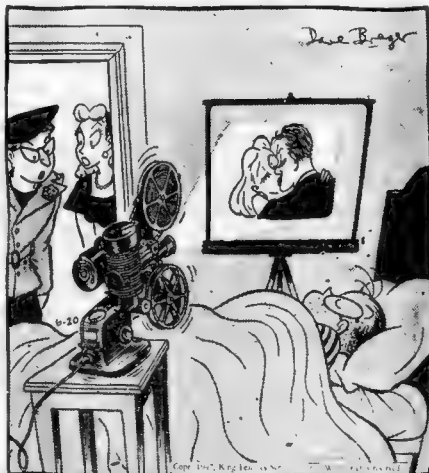

On Feb. 14, 1930, "Logvan" wrote "my own dearest beloved mother" the marketeer for pointing out that "above all daily tasks must stand the image of our great teacher and his cosmic teachings."

"You and Prof. Roerich opened the gates to us," the letter said. "I will do my utmost to carry out your commands."

HORCH and Henry Wallace changed abruptly. Horch just says he saw things in their true light.

Wallace has evaded the issue and made no explanation. He has never acknowledged the Guru letters, but he simply cannot deny his association with Roerich.

He accepted the official role of "protector" and made a speech at the ostentatious "dedication" in Washington of a banner and an informal Pan-American compact by which combatants in war would forbear to attack cultural objects flying that banner.

"He always sleeps at the movies, so it's the only way we can cure his insomnia!"

Q—Now, doctor, can you tell us from your examination whether the deceased was right-handed or left-handed or ambidextrous. A—No, I couldn't tell.

Q—Now, in this position that you found him, the head was farther away from the divan than the feet. A—Yes.

Q—Did you measure his neck. A—No.

Q—Can you tell us how large his neck was. A—It was average size.

Q—About the size of a man who would take a 15½ shirt. A—Yes, I think so.

Q—He was a man of good muscular development. A—Yes.

Q—His muscles in his arms were well developed. A—Yes, sir.

Q—He appeared to be a man in good health. A—Yes.

Q—He appeared to enjoy normal health. A—Yes.

Q—Now doctor, you sent some of his blood away for analysis? A—Yes.

Q—From the report you received did the blood contain any alcohol? A—No, it did not.

Q—Now, I think you said in your report that it was your opinion that the man lived for 10 to 20 minutes? A—Yes, after receiving the wounds on the skull.

Q—And you have also given us some information to the effect that he was also strangled? A—Before he died.

Q—You say that the injuries to the head were caused by some blunt instrument? A—Yes.

Q—You were at that house at about 5 a. m. A—Yes.

Q—There was no one in the room except the police officer on guard. A—No.

Q—Did you see any beer bottle there. A—No.

Q—Did you see any tonic bottle. A—No.

Q—Have you seen any rolling pin. A—No.

Q—Have you seen any rolling pin in your investigation of this case. A—Yes, I've seen a rolling pin but I don't know whether it came from that apartment or not.

Q—Now, doctor, reading from your report as to the cause of death you say, "Bone Cote died from extensive cranial injuries" and then you go on and say, "coincidental with the victim's neck being grasped violently, etc. Did I read that correctly doctor. A—(Examining the report) Yes.

Q—What do you mean by the word "coincidental. A—Well to mean "in the course of" not necessarily at the same time.

Q—Well that word means at the same time doesn't it. A—Yes.

Q—Did you mean when you wrote that that the victim was grabbed by the throat with one hand like this (Townes demonstrates by placing his left hand forward) and being struck like this (bringing his right hand down). A—No.

Q—That's what the word "coincidental" means. The witness made no response.

Q—You think that the pressure exerted was equally exerted on both sides of the neck. A—Yes.

Q—And you believe that as the result of the pressure there was some injury to the air passage. A—Yes definitely.

Q—Now on the throat, the application must have been applied from the bottom up—that must be right—because the hyoid bone is a U-shaped bone—with what did they call it, two horns. A—That is right.

Q—So that if pressure was applied to one side it must have been applied to the other—A—Yes, the bone is movable.

Q—So that if pressure is applied from one side it must be applied on the other. A—Not necessarily.

Q—But this hyoid bone is a movable bone and it was in three places. A—Yes, it was.

Q—Did you ever see a hyoid bone fractured in three places before in your experience. A—No, I cannot say that I did.

Q—Well this was fractured wasn't it. A—Yes, it was fractured in one place—but it was only gently in the other as I recall it now.

Q—And the injuries to the neck—reading from the report—are such as you have described here. A—Yes.

Q—By the larynx (still referring to the report) you mean what we laymen call the voice box. A—I guess so.

Q—Then the hyoid bone was broken on one side and dented on the other. A—Yes.

Q—And the cartilages around the bone showed some sign of injury. A—Yes, the cartilage below the bone.

Q—That was on both sides. A—Yes.

Q—And did it shut off the air passage. A—I do not know—it may have.

Q—Now, doctor, did it shut off the air passage. A—I do not know.

Q—If it was a case of manual strangulation—that is strangulation with the hands—it would have to have been from hands that had enough strength such as has been indicated here to do that.

Q—Wheatley—I object. Judge Forte—You object, Mr. Wheatley.

Q—Wheatley—I do your honor. I object to the form of the question.

Judge Forte—I will exclude the question in that form and instruct the jury that all inferences from facts are to be drawn by them and not by questions or arguments of either counsel.

Q—Would the manual strangulation have to come from strong hands. A—No, not necessarily.

Q—Would the marks have to be made by strong hands. A—Not necessarily.

Q—Then you say not strong hands. A—Normal hands.

Q—Normal hands. A—Yes, if they squeezed hard enough.

Q—Yes, that bone was broken and dented and the cartilage injured and perhaps the windpipe shut off, and that could have been done by normal hands. A—Oh yes, sir.

Q—And not strong hands. A—That is right.

Q—Do you mean that. A—I do. Any normal hands with the strength of the body behind them.

Q—The strength of the shoulders with the strength of the hands, with the strength of the fingers could have done it.

Q—How long did it take to do it. A—Not long.

Q—Was it short. A—Yes, it could have been done in a very short period of time.

Q—Does this fairly represent the Cote head showing the size of the neck. A—Yes.

Q—Then, from this it was a well developed neck, a good strong head and good shoulders of a man with good muscular development. A—Yes, he was well—but not overdeveloped.

Townes, pointing out a picture to the witness and jury, said:

Q—This shows the neck marks—What is this here—Is this what you call a nail scratch. A—That is a mark.

Q—Is it a nail scratch. A—I do not know.

Q—But it is consistent with a nail scratch? A—Yes it is.

Q—Would you say it was a nail scratch. A—I would not say that it was.

Q—Will you say what you think it is one way or the other. A—I believe it could have been a nail scratch.

Q—And this is the only mark on that side of the neck. A—Yes.

Q—There is no mark, like it, on the other side of the neck. A—No, there was no mark like that at all.

Q—(Showing him a picture)—You would not call it a scratch. A—No.

Q—But it is consistent with a scratch. A—Yes.

Q—And you think that it was caused by a thumb nail. A—Yes.

At this point Townes was showing the jury with his right hand extended and his thumb and forefinger pointed into their faces what he was trying to prove.

Q—You believe that it was caused by thumb or nail pressure. A—I cannot say positively.

Q—But without thumb or nail pressure it might not have been there. A—That is right.

Hint Cote in Fist Fight

DANGER TO TESTIFY

PLYMOUTH, June 20—Barbara Belmore, dancer, named as "the other woman" in the Cote case, will testify Monday at the trial of Mrs. Bertha S. Cote, according to announcement by Asst. Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley.

His announcement ended a long period of speculation during which it had been denied and affirmed that the vivacious Leominster girl would be a witness.

Miss Belmore, whose real name is Angela Nellie Styrpek, finishes a Montreal appearance tomorrow and will return to the United States the following day.

Q—The nail or the thumb. A—That is right.

Q—And it requires a thumb—it goes three-quarters of an inch across does it not. A—Yes.

Q—And it could have been a thumb nail. A—Yes.

Q—(Showing his hands as before)—Now if it was a right hand pressure (showing the right hand extended) wouldn't that mark be over here, on this side—(showing photo).

Wheatley objected stating that it was never testified what hand had exerted the pressure.

Judge Forte agreed.

Townes then showed the witness the victim's wrist watch.

Q—When you took off the watch from the left hand of Mr. Cote did the works fall out? A—No.

Q—Do you believe that the man was struck while alive? A—Yes.

Q—If a club were used on that ear you would have got an impression on that ear? A—Yes, if a club were used.

Q—You think there was a second blow? A—Yes, there was.

Q—You didn't pay any attention to Mrs. Cote that morning relative to any bruises on her arm or anything else. A—No, I did not.

Townes then read from a copy of the medical examiner's report on cause of death of Cote. As each paragraph was being read by Townes, the medical examiner pointed out to jury what he had discovered on body.

Q—Is it your opinion that the blows were consistent with a fight in which he—Cote—received a punch in the mouth and landed a blow with the right hand and left hand? A—Yes, it could be.

Q—Would it be your opinion that the blow was caused by the left hand? A—No.

Q—And might also have been by the right hand? A—Yes.

Q—Were the injuries consistent with a fist fight in which Cote was winning and someone came along and hit him with something? A—I don't know.

Following noon recess, Dr. Leavitt was recalled to stand. Townes announced that he had no further questions, and Wheatley, on re-direct examination asked:

Q—Concerning the watch what time was it when you looked at it. A—Five minutes past four.

Q—At that time did you look at your watch to compare time. A—No, I didn't.

Q—Did you have any conversation with the police officer there as to the time it was. A—No.

Horace C. Washburn Defense Re-Cross

Next witness called by the State—Horace C. Washburn, laundry-worker, of 72 Harvard st., Brockton.

He said he lived on the second floor of the house, occupying a front room.

Q—You were in the room the morning of Dec. 28, 1946. A—Yes.

Q—Why did you say it was night by some noise. A—Yes, I was.

Q—About what time was it. A—I would say quarter of four.

Q—And what was it that awakened you. A—I don't know.

Q—Why did you say it was quarter to four. Well, I later heard the clock strike 4.

Q—Now your bed is in the front room. A—Yes.

Cross-Examination by Townes

Q—At that time did you hear any noise from overhead apartment. A—Yes, I heard a crash.

Q—Did you get up at that time. A—No, not at that time.

Q—A little later did you hear further noise. A—Yes, about five minutes later.

Q—Did you get up later. A—Yes, it was about 4:30.

Q—I now show you Exhibit No. 10 and that is your room. A—Yes.

Then pointed out to "witness" the so-called bay window being referred to in the case which witness identified. Also he pointed out the location of his bed.

Q—As you lay in bed you say you heard a noise about 4 o'clock. A—Yes.

He was not questioned further.

RUSSELL M. SANDS Direct Examination

Next witness was Russell M. Sands, who stated that he lived at 64 Harvard st., on the first floor, and that he lived there on Dec. 28. He stated that he came home on the morning of the 28th at about 3 a. m., and that it had snowed.

Q—Before you came home you went somewhere. —To the Waldorf cafeteria.

Q—And then you walked up Harvard st. to the doorway of 64. A—That is right.

Q—That is right. Townes's cross-examination was merely establishing the position of the Waldorf restaurant with relation to the home.

Q—By Townes—Did you see any tracks there that morning. A—No.

Q—Any automobile tracks. A—No.

MELVIN WINBERG Direct Examination

The next witness was Melvin Winberg, who stated that he lived at 72 Harvard st., that he occupied the first floor apartment and that he and Mrs. Winberg owned the house jointly since November 6, 1945. He did not recall when the Cotes became tenants.

Q—They had the third floor apartment. A—Yes.

Q—And you were the owner on the early morning of the 28th of December. A—Yes.

Q—Were you in your home that night. A—I was.

Q—Were you asleep. A—I guess I was.

Q—How were you awakened. A—My wife awakened me.

Q—And what did she tell you. A—That Mrs. Cote was there.

Q—Was that what woke you up. A—Yes.

Q—And what did you do? A—I got up.

Q—Mrs. Cote was there? A—Yes.

Q—What did you do? A—I do not remember what I did.

Q—Your wife awakened you and Mrs. Cote was there. A—Yes.

Q—When you saw her in the kitchen, before she fainted, had you seen her before in the apartment. A—Yes, I believe in the baby's room.

Q—Do you remember what she wore. A—She was in a bathrobe, I believe.

Q—Did you observe whether she showed any signs of emotion at that time. A—No.

Objection by Townes—question allowed. A—I don't remember.

Cross-Examination By Townes

Q—Do you remember seeing the Cote child that day. A—Yes, in our own apartment. She came down with my wife and Mrs. Cote.

Q—Mr. and Mrs. Cote had been tenants in the apartment for some months before. A—Yes.

Q—You and your wife went to the apartment and had lunch there. A—Yes.

Q—And they came to your apartment for lunch? A—I don't remember that they had lunch there, but they visited there.

Q—Did you observe that Mrs. Cote was fond of her husband? A—Yes.

Q—And he was fond of her? A—Yes.

(through those months? A—Yes.

Q—On Dec. 28 you were awakened by your wife. A—Yes.

Q—Was Mrs. Cote with her. A—No; I believe she was out in the hallway.

Q—You stayed in the apartment at that time, and your wife went upstairs with Mrs. Cote. A—Yes.

Q—Was the Cote child later in your apartment. A—Yes, the child was brought downstairs by Mrs. Cote and my wife.

Q—After you were awakened were the lights on in your apartment. A—Yes.

Q—You had an opportunity to observe Mrs. Cote did she have any marks or bruises. A—Not that I know of.

Q—Do you remember the color of her bathrobe. A—No, I don't.

Q—When your wife and Mrs. Cote came down with the child, do you remember who took care of her. A—I don't remember, but she was put in a bedroom in our own apartment.

Q—When you followed the police upstairs, was Mrs. Cote already there? A—Yes, in the baby's room with the police. I went into the kitchen. I was talking with the officers and it was then she fainted. I carried her to her bed.

Q—Then you left to get a glass of water at the kitchen sink? A—Yes.

Q—When you returned she was reclining on the bed and she raised herself up and took the water? A—Yes.

Q—Did you see her reach into the bedclothing and get one of her slippers. A—No.

Q—Later you went back down to your apartment. A—Yes.

Q—When she came down to your apartment, you had a chance to observe her, and did you then observe any marks or bruises. A—No.

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—Mercy, what a gruesome idea—one to end all ideas. In a current psychological murder, the hero falls in love with a dead woman, of all things! Honest to goodness, this is what happens in "My Sister, Good-Night," for which Franchot Tone paid $55,000. The author, Gordon McDonnell, wrote "Shadow of a Doubt" for Alfred Hitchcock, which was a swell movie. The very bizarre "My Sister, Good Night" will be published by the Atlantic Monthly, and incidentally, this is the first mystery story ever published in that high-brow publication. Franchot will produce and act in the story.

TALKED WITH Frank Rosenberg, former head of publicity for Columbia, long distance, and Frank has the most interesting new venture. He's going to be associated with Monte Schaff in the production of "Man Eater of Koonam," by Maj. Jim Corbell.

That's one of the most fascinating books I've ever read. It was on the book of the month list, and was condensed in Reader's Digest.

Universal-International will release it for the boys; and they'll make it either in Mexico or Hollywood. I think all of Frank's friends will be happy to know he has such an exciting project. Believe me, I don't know when I've enjoyed a book as much as that one.

I WONDER if any of you remember "Love Is News" with Tryone Power and Loretta Young, which Tay Garnett directed for 20th? It was one of those gay, bright comedies, just the sort of thing we need now.

So I'm happy to tell you it's been taken off the Gene Tierney shelf and will be remade with Gene Tierney in the role Loretta Young created at least eight years ago. It must have been that long, because I remember I put this movie on "Hollywood Hotel."

It would be funny if Ty should play it again, when he could look just as young as he did then. Fred Kohlmair will produce it.

IF THIS WEREN'T so ridiculous it might have been serious. Gracie Allen was awakened the other morning by a charming voice from the income tax office saying, "Miss Allen, I hate to ask you this, but we've received so many tips. Did you, or did you not, take in $3000 from the London chain letter last year—and not declare it?"

Gracie hit the ceiling. "I did NOT!" she said. And in telling me this story she had a few thousand more words to say. She said she never carried on a chain letter in her life, that she is violently against them, and was furious when she found her name on this London letter. She received so many insulting letters from people who thought she won the money that she was forced to make a public denial. But someone didn't believe her and passed on the "tip" to the income tax people.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Diners at the quiet, out of the way Delmar hotel couldn't have been more surprised than when Greer Garson and Greg Bautzer walked in together and took a table for two. If this isn't the surprise duet of the week, it will do until somebody sets a new mark. I have to tell it was just a business discussion, but it must have been a pleasant one from eye-witness accounts. Greer still sees her estranged spouse, Richard Ney, but I doubt if they reconcile.

P.S. Bautzer and Greer were not discussing a possible divorce for her.

Arriving in our town Saturday or the next day is one Paul Graetz, bringing with him a print of "Le Diable au Corps," starring Micheline Presle, noted French actress. Graetz has a date to show his picture to Billy Goetz for Universal-International release.

And while he is selling his movie he will talk up his star. He is so sure some producer will want her in Hollywood that he has already sent her to England to learn to show his picture before she tries for a Hollywood job.

Joey Adams, who has turned over $42,000, the money he's made on his book, "From Gags to Riches," to the Damon Runyon cancer fund, is at the Sunset Tower. Joey is still trying to help Walter Winchell raise money, which is wonderful. He holds the record up to now.

Walter will be out here July 15 to help in the Los Angeles cancer drive, which is headed by Postmaster Mike Fanning.

Says Walter, "I can't wait to get there."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD Collected at Random: Ran into Al Johnston, who is here getting material for a special magazine article on the late Wilson Mizner. Bob Cobb is his man. He knew Wilson better than anyone else.

Went to Hollywood Park and took my Santa Anita race book for 1946 by mistake. When I finally got in, after causing everybody a lot of trouble, I met Mrs. R. B. Chandler, whose husband publishes the Mobie, Ala., Press Register.

She was with Mrs. Harry Warner and said, "We publish your column." Mrs. Chandler is the children's editor of the Mobie paper and writes under the name of Disa Stone.

MARTHA KEMP and Bob Oliver at a table for two at the Chanteclair.

Peggy Cummings was surprised when she walked in and found her brother, Harry, who arrived unexpectedly from England. He had been trying for his quota number for over a year.

There's a very sad and unhappy story back of June Haver's separation from her husband, Jimmy Zito, and it doesn't involve any other woman.

Nat Golde, who was assistant to Henri De Sota, is now head captain at Hollywood Park, and it's a very good choice, for Nat is gracious to everyone.

Billy Mauch, one of the Mauch twins, is in Mary Hagen at Warners with Shirley Temple. He, too, was a child actor.

The general release of "Perils of Pauline" is set for the 50th anniversary of Pearl White's birth next month. The picture is a goodie and you, and you, and you will love it.

Michael North and Janis Paige back together again sitting not far from Howard Duff and Yvonne de Carlo, who were also holding hands at the Sportsman's Lodge.

Nice gesture on the part of George Stevens to take Mark Sandrich, Jr., in and teach him the film business. Mark goes to work on "I Remember Mama." He's just out of school. His father was associated with George in a number of pictures.

Vera Zorina arrives in town tomorrow and will start rehearsals immediately with the Civic Light Opera for "Louisiana Purchase," which she will do here with Billy Gaxton and Victor Moore.

NEW YORK, June 20—I was sitting around in a Manhattan sillery the other night wondering whether to veto President Truman or attempt to pass him over a two-thirds majority when I was distracted by a couple of my old playmates. They were reminiscing like mad.

These gentlemen, whom we shall call Hal Burton and Warren Hall, because it would not be fair to innocent suspects if we gave anything but their right names, are very apt reminiscers, as many friends who would like to forget have learned to their anguish.

Consequently I looked around in terror because there is a hideous element of danger when they get reminiscing. They remember—and very loudly, yet things they should decently carry with them in silence to the grave.

It turned out there were no women nor kiddies in the immediate vicinity, so I held my peace. But inasmuch as most of Third Avenue heard it, I figured the rest of you could stand it too.

DRY-CLEANED A LITTLE,

this is the pet reminiscence of Mr. Hal Burton:

In the idle hours, late at night, when the teletype machines crack fitfully, and the final edition of the paper is rumbling through the presses, the men who work the lobster truck have plenty of time to think. Generally, they think about practical jokes; and some of these, perfected in the peculiar minds of reporters, rewrite men and copy readers, have become a part of news-papers folklore that you seldom hear about.

There is, for example, the story of the rewrite man and the managing editor's dictaphone. The managing editor was very proud of this little machine, which transcribed his spoken words onto revolving phonograph discs, and made it possible for him to transact his business by remote control. Everybody knew about the dictaphone, but nobody realized its immense possibilities except the rewrite man.

Now, at this time, on this particular paper, a particularly pompous, boring, overbearing and incompetent gentleman was acting as city editor on the lobster truck. The night writer expressed that he would go to China, get a new job somewhere else, or develop a nervous breakdown. Wheels began to turn in the rewrite man's agile mind.

THE NEXT NIGHT, at about 2 a.m., the telephone jangled on the city editor's desk.

"Listen, you fool," said the voice on the other end of the phone. "This is George, on rewrite. I just wanted to tell you that you are the biggest damn nuisance I have ever known, and I wish you would go off somewhere and drop dead."

"WHO IS THIS?" roared the city editor. The voice paused, just long enough for the interruption, and then went on: "Now listen, you: Don't break in on me. I've been working on rewrite under your command for six months."

The city editor, grasping the phone, revolved around and "dredged wildly at the rewrite battery. There was George, smoking a cigar and peacefully reading a newspaper. There was George, all right, but who was this on the telephone?

"—And I'm fed up with you. Why don't you drop dead?" concluded the voice on the telephone. There was a click as the receiver at the other end was

IT SEEMS as though the Republicans are somehow led into making legislative errors which even the wildest New Dealers avoided. I recently called attention to the curious P. O. bill in which Republicans propose to penalize the larger magazines of the country on a "Soak-the-Rich" policy which they, the Republicans, denounced during the reign of Harry Hopkins.

Apparently, once in office, some of them are just as Socialistic as the rah-rah boys they criticized.

Now I come to the White bill, a monstrous document which is to amend the communications act of 1934 and the like of which has not been seen even when the FCC was seeking to tighten its control over radio. The White bill outdoes the wildest imaginings of those who wish to destroy broadcasting as an industry and to nationalize existing networks and stations. As Sen. White is a Republican from Maine, it is impossible to believe that such a concept is original with him. Therefore with due respect and with more than ample charity I must assume that some Left Wing artists put one over on him. It is amazing how they do it. Yet, when one looks at the list of experts the Republicans hired, nothing is surprising.

LET ME CITE A FEW examples of why this bill is so goofy:

1—It gives the FCC power to modify licenses almost at will so that a radio station becomes the thing of the commission, making business arrangements uncertain and investments precarious.

2—It makes it impossible to develop claims by a limitation of ownership which would have the effect probably of forcing the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia to sell all but their New York outlets. This would reduce radio to primitive business and promotional conditions, eliminating the prospect of further advances because the burden of experiment, research and development would fall on suits too small to carry them.

3—Look at this one: "When a licensee permits an official of a regularly organized political party, or a person designated by him, to use a broadcast station in any political campaign, then the corresponding official in all other regularly organized political parties, or a person designated by him shall have equal opportunities for its use."

It sounds innocent, but there is Left Wing dynamite in every word of it, for it provides free time for the Communist Party, the American Labor Party, the Liberal Party, the Prohibition Party or dozens of others. Every time a station provided time to Harry Truman or Thomas E. Dewey it would have to give time to Henry Wallace, William Z. Foster and David Dubinsky and others. Dozens of political sub-parties would have to be organized by the major political parties to squeeze in.

4—And now have a look at this:

"No licensee shall, during a political campaign, permit the use of the facilities of a broadcast station for or against any candidate for any public office except (1) by a legally qualified candidate for the same office; or (2) by a person designated, in writing, by such candidate; or (3) by a regularly organized political party whose candidate or candidates' names appear on the ballot and whose duly chosen, responsible officers designate a person to use such facilities."

DOES THIS MEAN that if a citizen's committee seeks to protest against some combination of politicians, its voice is stopped? Let us say that during a campaign, Fred Allen mentions a candidate's name, must he be erased from the air? This is low-down, crude censorship in the interest of politicians. It does not make sense and will not stand up under the First Amendment of the Constitution and how a man of the character and probity of Senator White can propose such a disgraceful measure is beyond understanding.

And while I am about it. I must say that whereas I have generally been a Republican, as a protest against the Socialist New Deal, a few more tricks like the Post Office bill and the White bill will drive me as it will drive others into some other party, because when the Republicans go Left Wing, they look goofy. The Socialist mask does not fit them.

Smart Set Codman Wedding Next Week

By BETTY ALDEN

SHH-HH—DON'T TELL ANYBODY because it's a deep dark secret, but we hear that post deb Jane Fergusson and Boston's soci alite Fire Commissioner Russell Codman are going to be married next week.

Getting married quietly is a difficult feat for a prominent couple to accomplish in this high speed age of news services and radio, but 23-year-old Jane and her 51-year-old fiancé are trying to manage it. Only a handful of close friends are invited to the ceremony at Jane's house in Newton and they are sworn to secrecy about the wedding plans. Mr. Codman has a lovely Back Bay apartment all furnished and staffed with servants ready for his pretty bride to move into.

ALL SOUL'S CHURCH, Braintree, built by the bride's grandfather, was the scene of the marriage yesterday of attractive Mrs. Natalie Wales Latham of New York to Edward Bragg Paine, also of New York and a descendant of Braintree's earliest settlers.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Mrs. E. B. Paine Greenough of New York and Nathaniel Brackett Wales of Boston. She is a niece of Mrs. George T. Van Antwerp of Salem and Mrs. Warren Butler of Middleton who gave a reception at the Ritz-Carlton after yesterday's ceremony.

Natalie Wales Winslow and Mary Chilton Winslow, the bride's daughters by her first marriage, were bridesmaids. This is the second time the girls have stood up with their mother. In 1937 they were attendants when she married Edward Latham of New York. The vivacious Natalie was first married in 1929 to Kenelm Winslow. She became nationally famous during the war as founder of Bundles for Britain and Bundles for America, and was decorated by the British government.

Mr. Paine had his brother, Wingate Holmes Paine, as best man. The couple will live in New York.

DR. AND MRS. SARLE RESNICK of Boston and Manchester and William B. Burke of Brookline are giving a tea dance at the Women's City Club this afternoon to present their daughters, Marcia Halsey Rees and Katherine Patricia Burke, who graduated from Brimmer May this month.

The party takes place in the beautiful Storrow Room which has pale green walls, rich gold brocade hangings and heirloom portraits. To contrast with the room's decor the debutantes are wearing identical gowns of King blue taffeta with the new ankle-length skirt, drop shoulder neckline and carrying bouquets of yellow roses tied with matching blue satin ribbon.

Margaret Ellen Burke is head pourer, assisted by Sally Means, Georgia deForest Cabot, Edith Hall, Mary LeMoine Hewitt and Rosamond Langmaid. S. Beaufort Rees is head usher.

6 Japs Die in Mass Hanging For Murder, Cannibalism

GUAM, June 20 (AP)—Six Japanese, including two admirals, were hanged in a mass execution for crimes ranging from murder to cannibalism.

The convicted men walked up 10 rough, unpainted steps to the gallows—first a vice admiral, next a rear admiral, and last a superior private.

Rev. Kikizo T. Kami, a Buddhist priest from Honolulu flown to Guam, by the Navy to give the Japanese consolation in their last hours said: "They died bravely. They felt they died for their country."

First to die was Vice-Adm. Koho Abe, former ranking navy commander in the Marshalls, convicted of ordering the execution of nine Marines in the Makin Island raid in 1942.

Second was Rear-Adm. Shigematsu Sakibara, former commander on Wake, found guilty of the machine gun massacre of 98 Americans on Wake late in the war when an American invasion was feared. He was convicted of personally beheading one American who had escaped the machine guns.

Then came Lt.-Col. Kikujii Ito, who had two American fliers downed on Chichi Jima bayoneted to death and then personally beheaded the corpses; Capt. Noboru Nakajima, who beat an American flier to death on Chichi Jima, and Slt. Kaji Shoji and Superior Pvt. Kiyoshi Takahashi, who were condemned for murder and cannibalism on Guam after the Americans recaptured the island.

Their burial place was kept secret to prevent possible desecration of the graves by angry Guamanians who suffered under the Japanese occupation.

36 Last of Marine First Division Quits Tientsin

PEIPING, June 20 (AP)—Quietly, in the early morning, the last of the first Marine division moved out of Tientsin under cover of four fighter planes, and boarded the troopship Grenville off Taku, bound for San Diego.

A small detachment of a few hundred men of the Seventh Marine Regiment remained behind in Tientsin to wind up technical affairs of the division, and complete property transfers.

Otherwise the only Marines left in China were stationed at Tsingtao—a mere fraction of the thousands who stepped ashore shortly after Japan's surrender.

Thus, 19 days after the original deadline, the U. S. had reduced its armed forces in China to its specified minimum—the majority of them service troops—distributed almost equally between the Army's advisory group in Nan-king and the Navy unit at Tsingtao, where Chinese navy men are being trained.

For the First Division, the withdrawal marked the end of five years' duty overseas. It was the last major Marine unit to return to the U. S. from World War II.

Departure of the division means that the burden of defending North China's cities of Peiping and Tientsin, and rail lines to the sea, now rests squarely upon Chinese government armies.

Intensified Communist campaigns against the rail lines have begun in the past few days, and an unrestrained offensive is expected in the near future.

Condemned Attacker Of Girl, 15, Wins Slay

RALEIGH, N. C., June 20 (AP)—A 35-year-old white man sentenced to die today for raping a 15-year-old girl has been granted a 30-day reprieve after he had killed his brain and eyes to a medical school.

Gov. R. Gregg Cherry granted Vernon Litteral the reprieve after an attorney for Marvin Claude Bell, 33, a co-defendant in the case, had obtained a stay of execution from the State Supreme Court. Previously the Governor had said he would not intervene.

'Disbanded' Red Comintern Dominates Many Countries

By KENT HUNTER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, June 20 — Fourteen members of the executive committee of the Russian International Communist Party signed a paper in Moscow in 1943 which supposedly "dissolved the Comintern and ended Communist propaganda in nations outside Russia."

Here is the list and how they are now ruling many countries:

Klement Gottwald, now premier of Czechoslovakia.

Mathias Rakosi, vice-premier of Hungary.

William Peick, head of the Communist Party in Russian-occupied Germany.

Maurice Thorez and Andre Marty, co-chairmen of the French Communist Party and until recently high in French government circles.

Johann Koplenig, Communist national chairman in Austria.

Boleslaw Beirut, president of Poland.

Ann Pauker, chief of the Communist Party in Rumania.

Herita Kuusinen Leino and Yrjo Leino, daughter and son-in-law of Otto Kuusinen, former secretary-general of Finland's Communist Party.

Enver Hoxha, premier of Albania.

Marshal Tito, premier of Yugoslavia.

In addition to this executive committee group, here are other influential leaders in foreign government who studied at the Lenin Institute:

Ernst Fischer, Parliament leader in Austria.

Lazzio Luca, co-leader with Anna Pauker in Rumania.

William Z. Foster, head of the Communist party of America.

Walter S. Steele, chairman of the National Security Committee of the American Coalition, representing 85 patriotic, civic and fraternal societies, makes that charge in the August issue of the "National Republic" now on the presses.

"We have spent $20,000,000,000 in direct relief and $7,250,000,000 more in reconstruction abroad to revive war weary people and lands," Steele declared. "The facts prove we have been building Communism abroad by these humanitarian measures."

Steele will be a witness before the non-American activities committee of the House at an early hearing.

Chinese Red Gains Peril Manchuria

PEIPING, June 20 (AP)—Chinese Communists smashed into Szepekingai today, increasing the gravity of the situation of Nationalist forces battling to hold Manchuria, which some observers feared might be completely lost by the government.

Chinese dispatches said about 6000 Red army troops had surrounded the battered rail center, 70 miles southwest of Changchun, Manchurian capital.

The Szepekingai garrison was reported in a desperate plight, consuming ammunition faster than it could be dropped from planes and shelled by Red artillery set up inside the outskirts of the city.

UXORICIDE HANGED

LEEDS, England, June 20 (AP)—Eric Charles Briggs, 40, a weaver, was hanged today for stabbing his 49-year-old wife to death.

IRON MONSTER

ARRAIOLLOS, Portugal, June 20 (AP)—Locomotive No. 1166 of the Evora line has been retired—by popular request.

Peasants and villagers finally got tired of lining the tracks, armed with brooms and pails of water, to put out flames in buildings, fields and woods regularly set by the spark-tossing engine.

PROBE PALESTINE BLAST

Q—Bran for making cutworm bait is hard to get. Are the commercial mixtures just as good?

A—Commercial mixtures should be effective if they are fresh. Grate in some orange peel or mix in chopped clover to attract the worms.

Q—What is the name of the bean that has red pods?

A—I believe you have what is known as shell beans or horticultural beans in mind. French's Horticultural is the name listed in seed catalogues.

Q—Some insect is eating the leaves and flowers of our pansies. There are a few snails. Would snails do this damage?

A—Snails may give you some trouble, but it sounds more like cutworm damage. In either case, the use of poison bran mash should help to control them.

Q—Last year we set a few egg-plant but they failed to grow well or produce.

A—Eggplant is not an easy crop to grow. The plant will not do well in old garden soil that has been heavily limed as this causes the wilt disease to develop. Cool wet weather is not favorable for this crop.

Q—Can you suggest a plant that will bloom in a window box that is shaded most of the day?

A—One of the best plants for this location is the tuberous begonia. Buy potted plants for an early start.

Q—Our soil has turned green. Is this caused by acid?

A—This condition is caused by wet weather and shade. Cultivation and sunlight should correct this condition.

Rapist Dies in Chair, Shame In Heart But Hymn on Lips

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 20 (AP)—William A. Davis, 27-year-old Negro convicted on a charge of raping a prominent Sumter white woman at her home April 15, died with the echo of a religious song on his lips in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here early today.

The small, wiry man was calm as he entered the death chamber and was strapped in the bulky wooden chair by prison trustees.

"I want to say, captain," the Negro told Capt. R. Fuller Goodman of the prison staff, "that I know your race is a good race. My race is a good race. You folks here may never forgive me for what I done. My folks may never forgive me for bringing shame on them. But I know the good Lord will forgive me."

Turning to prison Negro Chaplain R. E. Davis, he asked: "Reverend, I wonder if you'd sing that song just once more."

"That's up to the captain," Davis answered.

Goodman nodded approval, and the small, rotund chaplain began the first verse of "Let The Lower Lights Be Burning." The condemned man joined him and they sang for a few moments.

Goodman ordered the mask and headpiece set in place and Davis said quietly, "Lord, have mercy," then "Goodbye, everybody."

He was pronounced dead four minutes and five seconds after the switch was closed.

Tops Among Puddings

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

WHAT'S MORE fun than whipping up a new dessert for the family? A fruit compote, or a glamorous mousse, or even a delightfully different sauce for store-bought ice cream turns what would be a Plain Jane meal into a gala occasion.

Here's a recipe that will win applause from the entire family, one of those dressy dishes that is as simple and wholesome for the kiddies as bread and milk. And what's more, it doesn't involve scores of ingredients. A package of prepared pudding, graham crackers, raisins, and crunchy peanuts are all the ingredients you need. You'll find it as easy as can be to make this pudding.

PEANUT GRAHAM PUDDING

1 pkg. pudding
1 cup seedless raisins
Peanut, coarsely chopped
Graham crackers

Prepare pudding according to instructions on package; add raisins and  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup peanuts. Line the bottom of pudding pan with graham crackers. Spread crackers with thin layer of pudding; top with graham crackers and continue making alternate layers of each until there are layers of pudding and 4 layers of crackers. Sprinkle remaining nuts over top of pudding. Chill thoroughly. Cut in squares. Serve plain, with top milk or whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

The famous French cooks have always been more proud of their creamy desserts than anything they prepare, and many of them are as simple to make as our American baked custards. This famous French Chocolate Pots de Creme owes its success to the skillful blending of milk, eggs and flavoring, and slow cooking. The French use very little sugar in their chocolate cream, but we have given a choice in the amount for those who like a sweeter dessert.

CHOCOLAT POTS DE CREME

$\frac{1}{2}$  squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 2-3 cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt
5 egg yolks
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate in a little milk in top of double boiler, over hot water; add sugar and remaining milk; cook until chocolate is completely melted. Remove from heat; slowly stir into beaten egg yolks. Return to double boiler; cover and cook at simmering temperature for 20 to 30 minutes or until medium thick, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, stir in vanilla. Pour into custard cups or serving dishes that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill. Serve with cold cream. Makes six servings.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE (Caramel Sauce)

2 cups sugar
1 cup heavy cream
Put half the sugar in small heavy frying pan and stir with a wooden spoon over low heat until melted. Add remaining sugar slowly and stir until mixture is smooth. Stir in cream very slowly. Stir constantly until smooth. Serve hot or cold.

Birthday Horoscope

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are entering one of the happiest periods of your life. Don't ever be discouraged. The future is worth waiting for.
Lucky number: 12
Lucky color: VIOLET
Lucky flower: GARDENIA
Lucky stone: ONYX

A LITTLE bit of more than all right is both the model and her gown. Beguiling as a wink... this crisply formal strapless white birdseye pique evening dress designed by Harriette Harra does more than play up sun-kissed shoulders. The side slit reveals an enticing glimpse of gossamer-sheer seam-free nylons with no ugly reinforcements at the heel or toe to peep out of evening sandals. That's because they have a double-gusset heel and toe to insure perfect fit around the ankle and to add to the smooth beauty of the gown and its beaded pique-stole.—R. M.

with ice cream. Makes 12 servings. (This sauce may be stored in a covered jar in the refrigerator and reheated.)

MAPLE NUT SAUCE

1 cup maple syrup
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup thin cream
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup salted pecans or almonds
Boil maple syrup 5 minutes. Add cream, stirring constantly. Stir in nut meats, whole or sliced. Serve hot with ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE

2 cups heavy cream
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup powdered sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. vanilla extract
1 cup crushed sweetened berries
Whip cream until stiff, and fold in strawberries, sugar, salt and vanilla extract. Pour in refrigerator tray and freeze in automatic refrigerator. Makes 1 quart.

Beauty Week for Boston

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

NEXT WEEK IS BEAUTY WEEK in Boston. It is a most propitious event... especially for this time of year when summertime is a woman's pretty-pretty time. We have weeks dedicated to this or that... so why not a Beauty Week?

A local store accepted the challenge and next Monday will launch a week of activities exploring every phase of beauty. In addition to its regular staff of trained cosmeticians... a corps of special-trained beauty experts from New York will be on hand to participate in the concentrated program to make Boston women not only beauty-minded... but naturally beautiful-faced.

The entire cosmetic department will be gayly decorated and the moment you step into the store you'll know that something extra special and mighty festive is going on. Each day will be set aside as the "Fragrance of the Day" holiday. A professional... and you just know she's going to be a knockout... model will promenade the floor with samples of this "fragrance of the day" for willing distribution. Every day a sample of a different fragrance will be given.

Armed to the teeth with all their professional and astute knowledge on cosmetic and beauty aids... the experts from New York will gladly answer any and all questions. Whatever your personal problem... however small or large... if it has to do with keeping you from being a more glamorous gal or woman... it will be discussed and analyzed for you.

GET A PERSONAL ANALYSIS

Trouble with your hair, hands, complexion? Some expert will be present to talk to you. From the lineup of visiting beauty consultants... there won't be a question asked to stump any of these beauty experts.

A beauty heart-to-heart talk is a gratifying discussion. It has the warmth of a personal interview posed on a quick take of your obvious beauty tribulations. And this Beauty Week promises to be an all-encompassing beauty clinic with the best beauty minds in attendance to impose consciousness of personal self on all who come and solicit aid.

A representative of your favorite brand of cosmetics will be there, we're certain. So meet and talk with her. Get a more personal feel of the beauty aids you use... Get a personal analysis of your skin condition and coloring... and let the expert chart a beauty program that will pay off handsome dividends in the months to come.

For the name of the store featuring this Beauty Week in Boston, or for information on your favorite cosmetics, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HOW BEAUTIFUL can a gal get? Well, if you're not as eye-appealing as you should be... if you have personal beauty troubles which need personal attention... if you're not as romantically lovely to look at as Warner starlet Arlene Dahl... let any one of a corps of specially-trained experts from New York... in Boston next week for a store-sponsored Beauty Week... help you.

She Should Start With Reducing Program

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl of 17 and very self-conscious because I am rather fat. My girl friends are a different type, and every time we meet some new fellows, they always have all the fun. I just can't seem to overcome my bashfulness and when I have a date, I can't think of anything to say.

What can I do to overcome my shyness? I would appreciate it if you would help me "BASHFUL."

Dear "Bashful": I think the first thing you had better do is overcome your stoutness before worrying about your shyness. Somehow, I imagine that if you made an effort to reduce and got yourself an alluring slim figure, the resulting self-confidence you would achieve would go a long way toward helping you overcome your bashfulness.

What about taking a course of exercise at your YWCA, or asking your gymnasium teacher at school to help you work out a regime you can follow yourself? As for a reducing diet, that is something you should not attempt without a doctor's advice.

Checks in Two Variations New Notes in Ensembles

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

A financier isn't the only one who can draw a fine check. Closely-checked fabrics, made into two-way ensembles, keep coming up in the collections of the outstanding designers.

A brilliant new idea is the use of the checks and double checks in a costume that can be worn as a suit, or, minus the jacket, as an important two-piece dress. The tie-in comes in the check which is tiny and subdued in the jacket, big and bold in the blouse.

Sophie designed the versatile costume sketched today. The first glance shows you a remarkably well-tailored suit with a slim skirt of black wool and an easy jacket of fine checks. Then you notice the jabot which picks up the little check of the jacket in a turquoise and white checker-board design. When the jacket is removed, the overblouse comes into view. Except for the shoulders and the sleeves, it is the same print as the jabot. The solid color blackbirds scattered over the print provide a tie-in with the skirt.

PITTSBURGH, June 20 (AP)—Ren Clark of Ft. Worth, Tex., a business executive who is a magician on the side, was elected president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. Other officers included H. A. Smith, Providence, R. I., second vice-president.

MAY NATION GAS
WASHINGTON, June 20 (INS)—Rep. E. A. O'Konski of Wisconsin declared in an interview broadcast by ABC that government officials are "considering rationing of gasoline in the United States within the next 30 days."
O'Konski charged that "if war broke out today, our military could not meet the emergency."

He said Russia has the greatest oil reserves — 180,000,000 barrels — while the U. S. is fourth in petroleum reserves. He said continuing the present policy of oil shipments would be suicidal.

Ray Milland, Teresa Wright Share Para-Fenway Honors

It is Academy Award week. With Brian Donlevy in "The Paradine" and Fenway "Frouble With Women," screens, with the Oscar'd Ray Milland, whose cinematic alchemy and Teresa Wright teamed holic won him the A. A. is an eminently respectable professor of psychology who believes women must be dominated by their mates in his current film appearance.

Miss Wright, as the prettiest news-gal you'll ever see, misquotes "Professor" Milland in an interview and he saves the newspaper for libel. She has had him sound off in favor of wife-beating.

"Editor" Donlevy, with no intention of playing cupid, assigns Miss Wright to persuade the professor to call off the suit by hook or by crook.

The film terminates with a don't-tell-the-secret finish, and so you'll have to take it from there at one or the other of the M&P twin houses.

'Cheyenne' Packs Plenty of Action

By HARRIS MORGAN

"Cheyenne," a "name" spangled Western with all the old, familiar skulduggery plus a welcome modernity in the way of dialogue and love scenes, is presently filling the Met with the clamor of gunfire, rattling stagecoaches, galloping horses.

Sneaking in under the wire is another and a sweeter sound, which is Janis Paige's ear-easing singing of "Going Back to Old Cheyenne" (written by Max Steiner, who did the musical score, and Ted Koehler) and "I'm So in Love" (by Koehler and M. K. Jerome). The handsome Miss Paige, who made a personal hit with the local press on a recent visit, wears a particularly fetching barroom costume to sing the former number, which could be one reason why that was the odds-on favorite.

Dennis Morgan plays a bad-die sent (by the sheriff) to catch a baddie. The latter is known as The Poet (Bruce Bennett) because of his penchant for reciting a swath of verse to remember him by before he takes off with the loot.

This necessity to substitute a law-breaker for the sheriff's men who are shown up as ludicrously incompetent is an angle likely to get a thoughtful movie-goer's dander up . . . and to question the film's suitability for overseas distribution.

Jane Wyman, as dainty and pretty a lady as ever trailed her skirts across a wild-west main street; Alan Hale, as the timid sheriff, and such assorted killers and outlaws as Arthur Kennedy, John Ridgely, Tom Tyler, Barton MacLane and Bob Steele are others who provide the love and melodramatics in Warner's rugged, brawling new Western.

'Odd Man Out' Rings the Bell

By PEGGY DOYLE

For sheer savagery and melodramatic magnificence, the James Mason-starring "Odd Man Out" at the RKO-Boston is the bell-ringing tops.

With extraordinary skill, Carol Reed, who directed "Night Train" and other fine British pictures, has projected an eight-hour man-hunt in the J. Arthur Rank offering.

The frenzied flight is prefaced by an airplane view of peaceful Belfast, drowning in the afternoon sun. This calm is shattered by a burst of gunfire when Mason, as the idealist leader of an illegal organization, is shot during an armed holdup of a linen mill to obtain funds for the organization. The panicky driver of the escape car drives away too fast and the wounded Mason falls from the running-board to the roadway.

The story of how he is mercilessly hunted, so graphically created by R. L. Green in his original book, is achieved with a wealth of cumulative events and vivid characterizations. In the course of his secret passage through a maze of dim-lit alleys he is befriended by some people, spurned by others.

These characters are arresting, real, full-bodied in their reactions to the hunted man, increasing immeasurably the ominous aura of suspense.

Somewhat reminiscent of "The Informer," John Ford's immortal classic, "Odd Man Out" is inevitably compared with it. Frankly, the J. Arthur Rank offering though it has tremendous emotional shock, has not the compassion-compelling profundity of Ford's powerful recitulation of a man's conscience.

"Odd Man Out" is, though, top-drawer melodrama, with Mason retrieving his Broadway misstep with his superb make-believing as the hide-and-seek Irish underground leader. Kathleen Ryan, as the girl who tries to slip out of the city, is wonderfully appealing, and there are masterful portrayals by supporting players.

50 Lines on Willie Turnesa and the Mass. Golf Open

By AUSTEN LAKE

MAYBE YOU HAVE NOTICED in your favorite journal that Willie Turnesa, the amateur golfer and winner of the British Amateur, is entered in the Massachusetts Open at Belmont, June 23. Willie is the first of golf's famous performers to enroll in this event, which pays the pro winner $700, and grades down from there a full $2000 worth, with ninth place paying $25.

At first sight the life of a journeyman golfer looks like all play and little work while traveling the big tournament circuits—the winter tourist centers of the South, Easter at Pinehurst, June along the Atlantic seaboard, autumn in California and nothing to do but waggle a small and facile bludgeon against a small and frisky pellet. A deadly grind my friends!

Hogan Freed the Slaves

IT SEEMS A CONGENIAL LIFE devoid of worry and money responsibilities. Yet no group of professional athletes struggle harder for the very crusts of existence than this caravan of vocational monomaniacs who follow the sun and sweat their souls to the last drop of optimism. The baseball, football and hockey players sign contracts and know to the final farthing what their rewards per man-hour of effort will bring. The fighters stipulate their earnings before climbing through the plush strands. And even the track and tennis athletes have ample expense accounts and a little something extra by the light of 'th' moon.

But your pro golfer goes on tour and takes pot luck for pay, meeting his own expenses from his winnings, or going broke. He has no drawing account and no wage except for the few celebrities whose ability and notability is employed by the golf tool makers. Thus many of the pros who begin each summer with nothing but a small money stake, a Pullman reservation, a wardrobe trunk and a heartful of hope, are soon reduced to walking the railroad ties, sleeping in haymows and playing for lunch and cigaret money.

Of course, there is the prosperous minority like Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Chick Harbert, Paul Runyan, Denny Shute, Gene Sarazen and venerable Walter Hagen, et al, who manage to foray a few thousands above tournament costs and make some extra profit by peddling rival brands of matched and numbered irons which come in plush jewel caskets and, which for best results, must be bought by the full set.

For the golf tool business which runs into many millions each year is built around the ever-changing scientific discoveries which delude the duffer into discarding his obsolete weapons and beginning all over again with new implements which will enable him to hit the ball wrong and still attain right results.

The originator of this bright idea and thus the emancipator of the professional golfer from a life of dull drudgery and social inferiority was Walter Hagen, the old wizard who prettied himself up in the gaudiest male fripperies and offered himself as a de luxe edition. Before his time, which is a long ways back as tempus fugits, the pro golfer was an ill-paid slave who taught golf's AB-ABS, lived like a gnome in his repair hut, ate in the kitchen and never presumed in the affairs of his betters.

Golf's Gypsies

BUT HAGEN ASSUMED the lofty elegance of clubhouse royalty and stamped into their quarters without so much as by-your-leave. And presently royalty was toadying up to him and asking for any small suggestions which would stimulate their game. So a firm of club makers hired Walter on its research staff and began marketing sets of expensive tackle in his name. And that was the first attempt of any tool company to prey on the hallucinations of the duffer by claiming to build magic into inert wood and metal.

Thus, when Hagen began making winter tours for large fees and fascinating people with his shiny motor cars, gay clothes and the variety of his shots, other pros took heart and followed his trail, trying for cash prizes which the richer clubs began to offer. So the caravan began and has been growing ever since.

Today there may be a thousand or more golf professionals of varying skill who chase the sun around the seasons and who, except for the gifted few, never catch up with the rainbow pot and either abandon the game and settle down to steadier work, or go home to putter in their tool sheds and give lessons. Others stick doggedly on, borrowing fresh stakes and thumbing rides from spot to spot in the trust that the cure for golf's treacheriness is close at hand. But few ever hit the jackpot and at best the pot isn't large.

The top money winner this season, since Jan. 1, is Jimmy Demaret, a Texan, who has collected $15,681—an imposing sum to be sure. Lew Worsham, who won the National Open last Monday, has $7513 to his credit. But the average earnings of the lesser fry is hardly more than $300, or far under their expenses. Still, next autumn when the schedules of the southern tournaments are posted and the caravan pounds boots and saddles, the heterogeneous horde of golf gypsies will go traipsing over hill and dale with little more than sore shins and sunburn for their effort. Watch 'em at Belmont next week.

Braves, Sox Rule Leagues On Play of Their Castoffs

by HERB FINNEGAN

Red Sox and Braves in first place on June 20. Never, in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, has it happened before. Irony of it all is that Rudy York belted the homer that beat the Yanks to put the Sox on top for the first time since April 19, and Mort Cooper provided the Braves with the runs that put the Braves back on the summit. The York-Jones and Cooper-Voiselle trades have made Cronin and Southworth look good.

Surge of the Sox to the top has upheld Dom DiMaggio's reputation as a prophet. A year ago, he said the Sox would win 105 games. Three weeks ago, after the Sox had been drubbed four straight by the Yankees in New York, he announced: "The Red Sox will be in first place by June 25. He was given the old bazoo, naturally. The Sox looked as if they'd be in eighth place on June 25.

Now Dom is ready to step back in the lineup and help keep the Sox on top. He's been idle since June 2 with a pulled muscle in his left shoulder but has been feeling quite pert of late. Yet managers don't change lineups when a club is winning, so Old

BOUDREAU TO PLAY

Sidelined for two games in Washington, Mgr. Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians expects to be back at his regular shortstop position—with his fancy shifts—in the floodlight game against the Red Sox at Fenway Park tonight.

Boudreau pulled a muscle in his left leg three days ago, and, for precautionary measures, he sat out the two following contests against the Nats.

Man Mose will be in right field tonight if he's recovered from his 15 innings of strenuous duty on Wednesday. But Dom seems a cinch to get into the Cleveland series.

Happy days are here again. Hat-hoisting days, nerve-tingling days. When, if ever, will be there another such game as the Red Sox grabbed 6-5 from the Browns at 1:07 Thursday morning? It left everybody as limp as a rag-doll.

Ready for another? There's another scheduled at Fenway tonight between the Red Sox and Cleveland Indians (Tex Hughson vs. curve-balling Red Embree). Before it gets under way, Cleveland catcher Jim Hegon will be given a car by his loyal fellow townsmen from Lynn.

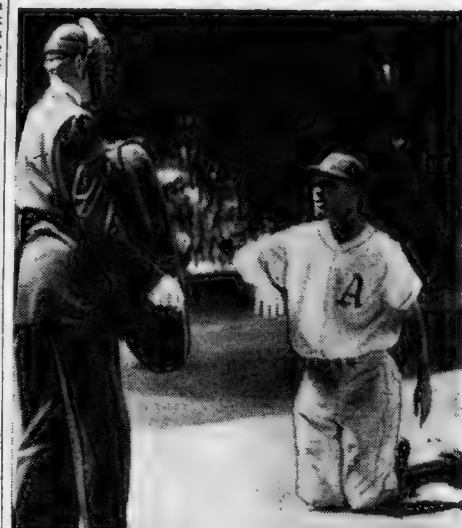

President Bill Veeck is supposed to be at the game. Promised to come when the Sox were last in Cleveland. There's a promoter, gentlemen. When he puts on a night game it is a combination of a Sunday school picnic and a July 4th celebration—everything but the ballyhoo.

Long before game-time six musicians in Indian attire stand outside the park tooting Peg O' My Heart and other Indian melodies. Young folks jitter and jive in the daylight and follow the tooters inside the park as if they were six Pied Pipers.

Patkin and Price do their novelty acts during daylight. As darkness approaches, pyrotechnics begin, and such pyros never were seen at St. Anthony's days.

Fun, fun, fun, there's always fun in Cleveland, but you can bet he'd swap it all for a ball club that would win Cleveland's first pennant since 1920.

VAIN APPEAL—Eddie Joost, A's shortstop, kneels appealingly before Umpire Rue as he holds up his injured hand which was hit by a pitched ball in a game with Detroit. Rue called it a foul-tip and wouldn't change his decision despite Joost's swollen hand.

Dropo's Bat Powerful

Walter Dropo, 6-5 rookie first baseman from U. of Ct., that the Red Sox grabbed while every club in both major leagues were angling for him, left little doubt in the minds of those who saw him perform last night at Fraser Field, Lynn, that he is headed for a brilliant career in the majors after a short apprenticeship with the Louisville club. He got a homer and a single while splitting the first base assignment with Jake Jones, who was homered. He handled himself so well around the bag that anything happens to Jones during the season he'll be called back to Fenway Park in a hurry... Lynn bowed to the parent club, 11-4.

The Indians have won 3, lost three on the road... Sox started the current eight-game win streak at the expense of the Indians in Cleveland by sweeping the three-game series... Dave Ferriss was around on off Thursday trying to get somebody to work out with him. But few were available because of the jaunt to Lynn... Dom DiMaggio had a private half-hour workout this morning. He's experimenting with a new batting stance.

This Cleveland series—arclight game tonight, single-day game tomorrow and double-header Sunday—should draw 90,000. Feller is scheduled to pitch tomorrow's game. Lou Boudreau didn't play the last two games in Washington, so his back injury must be kicking up. However he did get into both games as a pinchhitter. If he doesn't play against the Sox, they should sweep the series. He's the closest thing to a one-man hall club in the majors, more so than Joe DiMaggio FINNEGAN

Braves Have No Fear of Southpaws<sup>51</sup>

By BILL GRIMES

CHICAGO, Ill., June 20—In the event that Mgr. "Cholly" Grimm elects to send a southpaw chucker to the hilltop in any of the three games the Braves are listed to play the Cubs in this series, Mgr. Billy Southworth will counter with his "shock troops."

Until they faced "Preacher" Roe last Sunday in Pittsburgh, the Braves had at least one left-hand hitter in the lineup against every southpaw pitcher this season.

Southworth hasn't played Bama Rowell against a left-hander this year. He has used Johnny Hopp sparingly when portersiders have been on the mound. And it wasn't until the first trip to Cincinnati, with Vandermeyer pitching, that he benched Tommy Holmes.

Earl Torgeson was the last of the regulars requested to sit out a game because a left-hander was working. With the exception of Montie Kennedy and Harry "The Cat" Brecheen, "Torgey" has hit southpaws pretty well. He had his banner day of the campaign at Wrigley Field May 13, when he combed Johnny Schmitz for a single, a two-bagger and a homer, run and then cracked a two-run double in the ninth off Kush.

The "shock troops" made their debut in Pittsburgh against Roe, who set the Braves down in one-two-three order for three frames. Then, the "Shockers" began to click. Hits by Nanny Fernandez, Mike McCormack, Danny Litwhiler, a walk by Frank McCormick and a three-run homer by Hank Camelli pushed six runs across the plate and the Braves had made a clean sweep of the series. Then the "shock troops" were sent into the first game in Cincinnati to work on Ken Peterson. They had the young left-hander out of there before he'd retired three men.

Southworth now makes a practice of using an entire right-hand hitting club against southpaws. He believes that by so doing he will discourage rival managers from saving portersiders for his Braves. From a Boston angle, the best part of the move is that it doesn't take any power out of the Tribe's offensive. Fernandez, Litwhiler and Frank McCormick can, and have, hit balls out of any park on the circuit, while Mike McCormick has sliced a few triples off his right ear.

After his "shock troops" knock left-handers out of the box, Southworth doesn't make replacements immediately, even if the opposing manager sends in a right-hander. He watches the opposing club's bullpen and if he doesn't see a "souther" warming up, he will start to shift gradually.

The game which was washed out yesterday in Cincinnati was a break for the Braves. On this trip, the Tribe was scheduled to meet the weak teams first, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Southworth isn't top-heavy with starting pitchers so he has been burning the midnight oil trying to figure out how he could have his best hurlers available for this three-game series with the Cubs and the two night games in St. Louis. The weatherman solved that problem for him.

Southworth planned to use Warren Spahn, his ten-game winner this afternoon. Then he will come back with big John Cain tomorrow and wind up with Bill Voiselle on Sunday.

The ex-Giant hurler was in better condition than was thought. After pitching batting practice for four days, Voiselle informed his manager that he thought he would be ready by Sunday.

Looks Like Sox-Cards World Series As Majors Reach One-Third Mark

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1947

Baseball's dizzy pennant races are reverting to form as the clubs approach the one-third mark with another Red Sox-Cardinals World Series a distinct possibility, according to the Associated Press. Mention of such a pairing would have prompted loud hoots and a hurry-up call for the bobby wagon two weeks ago. Now the Red Sox are in first place with an unbroken eight-game winning streak and the Cards have surged from last to fifth, only 4½ games out of first, by winning their last seven straight.

The Red Sox moved into the American League lead yesterday, while enjoying an open date, on the strength of Chicago's 6-4 victory over the Yankees. As a result, the Sox took a five-point edge over the Yanks.

The Braves became the new National League pace setter, while watching the rain wash out their scheduled game in Cincinnati, because New York fell before Pittsburgh, 12-2. But while the Braves, Dodgers, Giants and Cubs have been shutting in and out of first place, all hands have been conscious of the Cards' rush toward the top.

The schedule makers stopped St. Louis yesterday, an open date for the Cardinals, but they resume today against New York, their particular jinx. Eddie Dyer's gang has yet to beat the Giants this year while losing six straight.

With the Red Sox on top and the Cards on the move, the only teams who are not approximating their expected form are the Giants and the Philadelphia A's. Nobody gave Mel Ott's Giants a tumble but they have been a factor in the race through the early days despite a glaring pitching weakness. That flaw was quite evident in yesterday's wallowing in Pittsburgh when Kirby Higbe became the first Pirate pitcher of the last 20 starters to go the route. Catcher Dixie Howell feasted on the Giants hurlers for four hits, his best day in the majors.

Mort Cooper failed in spectacular fashion, being clubbed for eight hits in 2 2-3 innings of his Giants' debut. Three other New York hurlers were treated roughly and the Giants suffered another serious blow in a serious injury to lefty Montia Kennedy. The young southpaw was hit in the head by a line drive off the bat of Walker Cooper in batting practice and taken to a hospital, suffering with a linear fracture of the skull. He will be out at least three weeks.

Brooklyn swept the entire three-game set from the Chicago Cubs, elbowing into third place, on a 5-1 success against Johnny Schmitz. Ralph Branca posted his eighth win on an eight-hitter with Fee Wee Reese contributing a single, double and triple.

Those amazing A's knocked over Detroit, their fifth straight loss, 8-4, and advanced to within 2½ games of the lead. Dismissed as a sure also-ran and doomed to another cellar finish in spring-time predictions, the Mackmen really are the surprise of the year.

Phil Marchildon's sixth victory was scored at the expense of Freddy Hutchinson who seems to be still suffering from arm trouble.

Rudy York's two-run homer, capping a four-run Chicago explosion in the fifth inning, helped sink the Yanks into second place. Gordy Maltzberger, relieving Ed Lopat in the fifth, hit the win circle for the first time this season and Floyd Revers took his eighth setback. Dave Philley's three singles and a double led the 12-hit attack.

Washington eked out a 3-2 margin over Cleveland for Early Wynn's eighth victory. Tom Ferrick repulsed a late Tribe threat when Wynn weakened in the ninth. Bryan Stephens, whose first big league win came at the Senators' expense May 15, went down with his fourth straight loss.

Monte Kennedy Lost to Giants for 3 Weeks

PITTSBURGH, June 20 (AP)—The crack of Walker Cooper's bat during warm-up drills for the Pittsburgh-New York game at Forbes Field yesterday signalled a blow to the Giants in their fight for the National League leadership.

The ball caromed off the head of Monte Kennedy, Giants' starting pitcher, causing a linear fracture of the skull. He was taken to a hospital, where his condition was described as good. However, he will be lost to the Giants for at least three weeks.

Soldiers Hope Spahn Pitches In All-Star Game

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, as managers of the National and American leagues All-Star teams, which meet here July 8, will pick their own pitching staffs, but soldiers overseas have made some suggestions.

The Stars and Stripes, collecting ballots in the Army's Europe command, is one of the 193 newspapers, radio stations and magazines participating in a poll to name the eight starting players—pitchers excepted—for the game. The Stars and Stripes, however, asked for pitcher nominations, which will not be binding on the managers.

The soldiers nominated Warren Spahn of the Braves, Schoolboy Rowe of Philadelphia, Harry Brecheen of St. Louis and Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati in the National League. The top pitcher in the American League, as named by the soldiers, were Bob Feller of Cleveland, Hal Newhouser of Detroit, Spud Chandler of New York and Dave Ferriss of the Red Sox. Joe DiMaggio was the top individual vote-getter in the latest compilation of votes from the entire network of polls. DiMaggio had been named on 173,251 of the 419,689 ballots tabulated to date.

300 Marksmen Shoot In Great Eastern Skeet

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Firing shoulder-to-shoulder, more than 300 individual marksmen from many sections of the country will vie for honors in the 15th annual Great Eastern Skeet Tournament, and its companion events, the National Telegraphic Skeet Championships, which commence tomorrow at the Lordship, Ct., shooting grounds, continuing through Sunday. This is the first revival of the contests since before the war.

Dodds Tries Double In NEAAAU Meet At Brookline

The annual outdoor NEAAAU senior track championships will be conducted tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the State Department of the V. F. W., at Brookline Field, on Cypress st., Brookline.

Among the 350 contestants from 15 colleges and 38 high schools will be competitors from Harvard, Boston College, Boston University, Tufts, MIT, Rhode Island State, Brown, Northeastern, Worcester Tech, Drake, Iowa, Notre Dame, Holy Cross, New Hampshire University and Worcester Academy, who will vie for honors with a number of A. U. stars.

Feature of the VFW sponsored meet will be the appearance of "Parson" Gil Dodds who will attempt to break his own NEAAAU mile record of 4:13 made on the Boston College track a year ago. Dodds, who has previously turned in a 4:12.6 mile on the fast Brookline track, will be running against James O'Leary, Holy Cross ace; Manuel Gaetano, Rhode Island State star, and Harvard's Blanchard Dyons.

Dodds is also entered in the 880 yard run which may prove to be the race of the day. Entries for this event include Carl Joyce, undefeated Commerce High School ace who set a New England high school record of 1:55.8 seconds in Newton last Saturday; Joe Hall of Rhode Island State; James Taylor, miler from B. C. and Dick McDougal of Arlington High School.

Big Amateur Field To Aid Dilboy Bow

New England bantamweight champion Frank Collins, Roxbury, and a flock of Watertown amateur boxers have filed their entries for the first outdoor fight program of the season at Dilboy Field, Somerville, next Wednesday night as the George Dilboy bout, VFW, opens its weekly sessions.

Waterbury entries include Dick Bakalyan, 118; Frank Harris, 126; Bob Adams and Bob Doherty, 135; Clayton Merritt, 157, and Dan Cronin, 160.

Competition in this show will be in all divisions from 112 lbs. to heavyweights in Classes A and B. Entries may be filed with Fred Russo, 371 Summer st., Somerville.

and its companion events, the National Telegraphic Skeet Championships, which commence tomorrow at the Lordship, Ct., shooting grounds, continuing through Sunday. This is the first revival of the contests since before the war.

Among local gunners heading for the Great Eastern is Dick Shaughnessy, top trigger-squeezer of Boston's Mayflower Skeet Club, who will attempt to win the 20-gauge title for the fourth consecutive time. The former Air Corps gunnery expert has captured the crown on three occasions, with perfect scores of 100x100. Dick also hopes to take the All-Bore championship, as well.

The Mayflower Club's team members will toe the line, competing against scores of other squads, one of which will be the unique "Day" team, of Washington, D. C., composed of "Pop" Day and his four sons, Gene, Bill, Howard and Douglas. . . . Defending champs are the group from the National Capitol Rebels organization.

The ladies are adept with guns, too, and famous "Annie Oakleys" in action will be Mrs. Rose Pearlman, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. M. L. Smythe, Florida; Mrs. J. A. LaFore, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. J. C. Ellis, Florida. . . . Dr. P. Davis, Burlington, Vt., has the honor of being the initial shooter, for he will be No. 1 man in No. 1 squad, "firing the shot heard round the skeet world."

ANGLING ANGLES: Gov. Robert Bradford will head a team of five New England governors in the Martha's Vineyard Stripper Derby, Sept. 13-Oct. 15, and he has issued a challenge to any or all governors in the country to compete against his group in the trout derby. Gov. Bradford was presented with the first badge of the Derby by Rep. Joseph Silva, of Oak Bluffs.

Charley Cushman, of Millis, a former Mountain Trooper with whom we served at Camp Hale, Colo., just dropped in to tell us that the trout are hitting well in the Boggs river, which winds through his area. This outdoorsman took several nice brookies and browns, using worms. A crack shot, too, he recently bagged a woodchuck which was nearly as large as a dog. . . . The trout fishing on the whole, has improved throughout the Bay State, for streams are now lower and clearer. Good catches are being reported from the Deerfield river, and other waters in the western section.

Harvard Ace Makes Park League Debut At Rogers Park

Brendan Reilly, ace Harvard College hurler who handcuffed Yale only to lose to the Eli 1-0 at New Haven Wednesday, makes his Park League debut tonight at Rogers Park, Brighton, where he will pitch for West Roxbury against the Artesian Club.

The visitors took the first of the series last night at Fallon when Red Sliney drove across the pay-off runs with a belt that almost knocked second baseman Gene Lovett down.

Eddie Barry, former Bruins and Olympics hockey player and one of the few Americans ever to make the National Hockey League, is slated to hurl against the league-leaders. Eddie has a fast one that really blazes, and barring an outburst of temperament he should be a match for Reilly.

Boston Giants and Will Jackman tipped the Caseys early in the week at Carter, 2-1, and tonight the two clubs meet at the Town Field where Bobby Fulton is booked to hurl.

Another Harvard pitcher, Frankie Foley, prewar Crimson football star and hurler, will go against the Linehan Club at South Boston Stadium when Bill Benson's boys make a home stand —Providence, R. I. The scene will be Cranston Stadium, just outside of the R. E. capital with the first ball getting into play at 9:30 a. m.

Providence, a city of close to a quarter-million, most of them baseball fans, is expected to exceed the record turnouts made at Lawrence and Worcester.

"Buzz" Boyle, manager of the New England League Providence Chiefs and director of the Hearst Providence board, looks for more than 250 sandlotters to try out for the berth on the All-New England team.

Claude Davidson, N. E. League president and director of the Hearst board in N. E., will work with Boyle in Providence.

"We have had great response at both Lawrence and Worcester," stated Davidson. "There were 193 boys at the Lawrence series, sponsored by the Lawrence Millionaires. There were 162 boys at the Worcester series. There is little doubt in my mind that Providence will surpass both those cities in attracting candidates."

The four players chosen so far to represent their cities in the All-New England final at Fenway Park, July 29, are top notchers. There is pitcher Dick Kowalski, Lawrence High; catcher Joe Barry, Haverhill; shortstop Mike Turro, Worcester Trade; and outfielder Phil Philip, Worcester Classical.

These sandlotters will be battling for Joe Cronin and Lou Boudreau in the N. E. final. They will be fighting every inch of the way to get a berth on the National Hearst team which plays at the Polo Grounds on Aug. 13.

The age limit for contestants is over 15 and under 19. There is no entry fee. Everything is FREE.

SANDLOT DATES

There are two Hearst sandlot trials next week. The Nashua Dodgers will entertain the Hearst board at Holman Stadium, Nashua, at 1 p. m. Thursday, June 26. The Lynn Red Sox will do the honors at Fraser Field, Lynn, 9:30 a. m. June 28. There are five more Hearst trials to follow. Watch for the dates!

May Likely to Ride True North in Blackstone

By DAVE WILSON

NARRAGANSETT PARK, June 20—The veteran jockey Tommy May was slated to come over from New York to pilot Rabies in today's feature race at Gansett. May probably will remain over to ride Deering Howe's fleet True North in tomorrow's running of the $10,000 Blackstone Handicap. Incidentally, True North had split-second experts literally goggle-eyed several mornings ago when he worked six furlongs in 1:14 over the deep Belmont Park training track in preparation for the Blackstone.

From all accounts last Wednesday night's meeting of the United Trainers' Association must have developed into quite a lively jam-bore. Heads of the organization have announced that several members had been fined $15 for imbibing something other than spring water, another was assessed $50 for disregarding grammatical niceties, and another faces expulsion from the club as an aftermath of the shindig.

Your envoy didn't have a ring-side table at the gala affair, nor is he interested in the proceedings, but he does believe that heads of the UTA may have been guilty of poor taste by releasing names of its penalized members to the press.

After all the UTA which includes in its membership more than 80 per cent of the horsemen now saddling horses on New England race tracks, has done a lot to improve conditions for the horsemen as a body and it seems a pity that this fine organization is now faced by extinction due to trivial disputes among members.

Jockey Sammy Luce, who recently underwent a minor operation at a Boston hospital, is back galloping horses again and hopes to be seen in silks shortly. . . . Apprentice Raymond Prevost, badly injured in a fall here last Saturday, is reported making a quick recovery. . . . According to trainer Harold Raines, the Brown Hotel Stable's clever 4-year-old Double Slam is rapidly coming to hand.

Demaret, Locke, Hogan KO'd in PGA Tourney

DETROIT, June 20 (AP)—Three of the top men in professional golf were knockout victims today in the first round of the 29th Professional Golfers' Ass'n championship as Ben Hogan, Bobby Locke and Jimmy Demaret were beaten in the 18-hole "sudden death" match play.

Locke, the South African winner of five of seven tournaments since he has been in the U. S., lost by one hole to Henry Ransom, a caddy, who plays from Annapolis, Md., after Hogan, the defending champion, had taken a 3 and 1 setback from Toney Penna of Cincinnati.

Demaret, the medalist and leading money-winner of the pro season, followed them into defeat, losing 2 and 1 to Earl Martin of Inglewood, Cal.

In contrast to Hogan, who was "dead tired," carded an 18-hole score of 73, one par per Demaret also was one over par when his match ended after taking two sixes on the outgoing line.

After his match, Locke said he planned to take a holiday and lie on the beach for a week. He said he would leave for Boston tonight. Demaret attributed his defeat to poor putting, adding: "I didn't deserve to win."

Hogan just wasn't good enough to match strokes with a red hot opponent today. Two down after the first three holes, Penna recovered with a blazing series of four straight birdies and was seven under par when the match ended.

In the second 18-hole round this afternoon, Penna faced Ky Lafoon of St. Andrews, Ill., Ransom met Dick Metc of Chicago and Martin played 1941 PGA Champion Vic Ghezzi of Kansas City, Kan., a 6 and 5 winner over Herman Keiser of Akron, O., this morning.

Survivors of the first "knock-out" round included Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, recently crowned national open champion, and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, 1946 open winner.

Worsham gained a 4 and 3 decision over John Morris of Montgomery, Ala., as he shot the nine in 34, two under par, then matched strokes with par for the remaining six holes.

Mangrum turned back Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., two up, coming home in 34 to win after trailing by two holes at the 11th tee. He birdied the last two holes, both par-five affairs, to break the match even.
